MEAT SUPPLY EXPERTS TO MEET

Chicago, Nov. 13—A meeting of packers, stockmen, commission men and retail provisioners will open here on Monday to confer with government experts on the marketing of live stock and the distribution of the nation's meat supply. Charles J. Brand, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Markets and Rural Organization, has called the conference of the producers, packers and distributors, in order that a better understanding may be had and the system of supply and demand be studied more closely.

NOT TO FIGHT SEPARATION SUIT

Concord, N. H., Nov. 13.—United States Senator F. Hollis of New Hampshire will not contest the separation suit brought by his wife, when the case comes up for hearing on Monday in the Superior Court. In his answer to the spit, he concedes to his wife the custody of their minor child, and acnowledges his duty to provide for his wife and daughter, and he asks the court to fix the sum to be paid. Senator Hollis has filed with the court a statement of his property and obligations, as the basis for the adjustment.

The answer of Senator Hollis was written from Newfoundland, whither he had gone during the early autumn to recuperate. He states that he and his wife separated in 1912, when the wife went to Europe with her children. For some time, up to last July, Senator Hollis claims he paid his wife over $4,000 a year for the support of herself and the children.

The Senator acnowledges that he took exception to her action in employing as her counsel a prominent lawyer in New Hampshire who, Senator Hollis alleges, bore him a personal grudge, and that he wrote her that if she continued to employ this attorney he would not pay her another dollar except what the court should award after a hearing.

In his reply to the wife's suit, the Senator states that in order to provide a generous allowance for her, he took the unusual course of continuing to practice law at great personal sacrifice for more than two years after his election to the Senate. "I know of no legal or moral obligation to continue to practice law for the benefit of those dependent upon me, when I hold an office which requires all my time, and which pays a salary of $7500 per year. That should be enough to support four persons. I accordingly gave up the practice of law and sold my business unconditionally and without reservation to my law partners."

Senator Hollis claims he has no income or mean of income outside his salary from the Government.

The suit was filed last month, and it caused a stir in social and political circles. Mrs. Hollis was formerly Grace Bruerton Fisher, and they were married in 1893, the year after the Senator graduated from Harvard. Mrs. Hollis is a suffragist, and is prominent in Concord circles. In the spring of 1912, Senator Hollis left his family, and the cause was not known even to his father or other members of his family. Since his election to the Senate, he has spent most of his time in Washington, coming here occasionally to appear in a prominent law case.

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 13.—Constantinople declares that Turkish batteries on the Gallipoli peninsula have driven off allied monitors and other warships attempting to bombard the coast. The Italians claim further progress in the Isonzo and Carso regions, but Vienna denies this. Berlin says the Germans are continuing the pursuit of the Serbians southeast of Kruzevac and that the Teutons have crossed the Jastrebac mountains, taking 1,100 prisoners. A Genoa despatch says that Italy has decided to fit out for use interned liners now in Italian ports. Dr. Cecil Greil, an American on the Ancona, is quoted as saying that the Ancona was shelled by an Austrian submarine while the passengers were taking to the boats. A Tunis despatch says the survivors testified that the submarine chased the Ancona's boats containing passengers, capsizing some of them. German and Austrian sources are still without information on the incident. A French official statement tells of spirited hand grenade fighting on the western front.

No American Survivors.

Malta, Nov. 13.—There are no American survivors of the Ancona here.

Bulgarians Endangered.

Saloniki, Nov. 13.—The entire Bulgarian force west of Vardar is endangered by simultaneous Serbian and French offensives, according to news here from the front. In the Supagora district the Serbians inflicted heavy losses and demoralized the invaders. Two French cavalry raids cleared the ground between Krivolak and Veles. Allied reinforcements are arriving at Saloniki daily and then rushed into Serbia.

Italian Steamer Sunk.

Rome, Nov. 13.—Italian steamer Firenze was sunk by a submarine and six passengers and fifteen of the crew are missing.

British Submarine Sunk.

London, Nov. 13.—An official statement today says that the British submarine E-20 was sunk in the Dardanelles and that her crew are prisoners.

Germans on Greek Mission.

Rome, Nov. 13.—A Saloniki despatch says that four German officers, just before the landing of allied troops there, spent three days in motoring in the Saloniki district and that they were taken to Athens on a torpedo boat. It is asserted that they constitute a special mission to establish relations between Athens, Constantinople, Bucharest and Sofia.

Allied Uneasiness Increased.

London, Nov. 13.—The uneasiness shown by the Entente allies over the attitude of Greece was increased today over the news that an Austrian-Hungarian diplomatic mission had arrived at Athens to regulate the political and military situation between the Central Powers and Greece.

Hindenburg is Huffy.

London, Nov. 13.—A Petrograd despatch says that at a recent meeting of Emperor William and Gen. von Hindenburg the emperor demanded that Riga and Dvinsk be captured at any cost. Hindenburg refused to make another attempt, announcing that he would resign if the emperor continued to insist.

Bulgaria to be Catholic.

Naples, Nov. 13.—The Mattino says that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria has informed Pope Benedict that Bulgaria after the war will become a Catholic country. The heads of the Bulgarian church are not opposed, provided the pope is willing to recognige the Orthodox Bulgar prelate. The Bulgarian national faith is that of the Orthodox Greek church.

British Steamers Sunk.

London, Nov. 13.—The British steamship Sir Edward Richard Awdrey has been sunk. Nothing is known of the crew. The British steamer Den of Crombie has also been sunk, but the crew was saved.

Kaiser to Visit Armies.

London, Nov. 13.—Emperor William passed through Orsova, Hungary, Thursday en route to Sofia, Bulgaria, where he will visit King Ferdinand for two days. He will then inspect the German armies in Serbia, after which he will visit Constantinople, according to a Copenhagen despatch.

CHIOANS, ONE IN TWENTY NINE, OWN AUTOS.

Columbus, O., Nov. 13.—Registration of automobiles in this state shows that one person in every twenty nine in Ohio owns a motor-car. There are about 180,000 machines registered. Their value, estimated at $500 each, is ninety millions of dollars.

A. A. U. OFFICIALS MEET AT NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 13.—Representatives of all the amateur athletic organizations throughout the country will assembe here tomorrow for the meeting of the national council of the A. A. U. The delegates will attend in a body the burial of the late James E. Sullivan, who directed the affairs of the A. A. U. for many years.

WAR BONUS FOR WORKERS.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 13—The second bonus on profits, offered by the Colt Firearms Company to its employees, will be contained in the envelopes of the workers when they are paid off today. The first bonus was $45, paid three months ago, and the second bonus will exceed this amount.

ERITAIN AND FRANCE GET FIRST BOND INSTALLMENT.

New York, Nov. 13—The first installment toward the $500,000,000 bond fund for the British and French government will be at the disposal of the representatives of those powers on Monday. It is a 15 per cent payment on the bonds, and will reach to between sixty and seventy-five millions.

TO LICENSE CHARITIES.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 13.—Beginning on Monday, the state board of charities will enforce the law requiring solicitors for charitable institutions to obtain licenses in Michigan. Collectors for dinners for the poor, such as the collections at Thanksgiving and Christmas, will have to be licensed in this state.

THE JAPANESE THANKSGIVING.

Tokio, Nov. 13.—The Great Harvest Festival, the Japanese Thanksgiving, is to be observed throughout the Empire tomorrow. The main celebration is at Kioto, where, in honor of the new Emperor, Yoshihito, the sacred ceremonies of the Daijosai will be carried out. The Emperor, as the ruler of the Land of Sacred Rice, which was bestowed by his heavenly ancestors, offers a feast to his ancestral gods, and himself partakes of the sacred food.

The Emperor is today performing one of the most sacred rites incident to his coronation. A service dedicated to the purification of the soul and body of the Mikado, also all members of the imperial family, is being conducted with the pomp and grandeur of oriental custom. Three court feasts, to which the foreign diplomats will be invited, are to follow tomorrow's festival.

WAR'S INCREASING HORRORS.

For years past it has been a pleasing fiction that the increasing horrors of war would result in preventing war. At the time of the late war between the states it was prophesied that the increasing deadliness of war machines would put a prohibition on war in the future, and this has been repeatedly stated ever since.

Although it is apparent that even the present deadly weapons have not reached the ultimate end of such increasing horror, there is nothing is nothing to indicate that human nature will be deterred from war by the ever accumulating atrocities which modern science is enabled to accomplish.

During the present war there have been new horrors added in the way of bomb dropping on defenseless towns, killing innocent women and children; the use of deadly gases; the destruction of passenger vessels by submarines; the use of flame bombs, and other destructive inventions.

It is evident that even these deadly devices have not deterred nations from going to war, and the terrible losses—greater than ever before in the world's history—indicate that in spite of the certainty of death the warriors are as eager as ever to submit to the arbitrament of arms.

Edison believes that we are as yet in the infancy of invention as regards horrible war devices, and that future wars must be fought by machinery. But even so, will the destruction of one set of machines by another end the wars, or the machines to be used in destroying human life, in the same manner as the deadly dagger or the swift arrow ended wars in the past?

It is all very well to talk about war by machiney, but war presupposes killing, and unless the war machines will enable their prossessors to kill their enemies they will be of little value in deciding the question at issue.

When trench fighting came into use, was predicted that future wars would be less horrible, because the one best able to entrench itself would be able to stand off the enemy. But the present trench fighting proves to be almost as deadly as fighting in the open, owing to the use of high explosive shells and mines.

Even the long distance fighting which was predicted as the result of the long range, high power rifles and artillery, has not been as effective as was expected, and there have been sanguinary hand-to-hand battles as bloody as those of the Romans with their short swords.

Nothing will ever make war so horrible that it will be superseded. The era in which each invulnerable thickness of armor plate was followed by a gun of great piercing qualities is succeeded by a period of more protective trenches and high explosive shells that crush concrete into powder.

So long as man is subject to human passions which turn him into a brute with the desire for blood, so long will war continue, no matter how horrible the engines of war become.

Frank Stockton many years ago wrote a romance entitled "The Great War Syndicate," in which a company engaged to conduct the wars of the civilized nations. Unless such an arrangement could be made for future wars, the loss in life and treasure may make war prohibitive, but there is little reason to believe that nations will be deterrred from entering into war merely because of its horrors.

All the wars of past history pale into insignificance when compared with the present, yet the governments do not seem to be horrified at the terrible slaughter of human life. Rather are they concerned as to the possibility of securing more money which to continue the war.

Mr. Edison's machines of the future may make war so horrible that even the present will seem nothing, but even that will not daunt the nation determined upon war instead of arbitration.

THE NAVAL INCREASE.

Critics of the administration state that a navy composed of great battleships will be of little value because of the increasing deadliness of the submarine attacks. One of them goes so far as to state that a modern navy is worth no more than scrap iron when opposed to the submarines.

The history of the present war does not bear out these statements. It has been proved repeatedly that a submarine is of little value when opposed to swift torpedo boats or destroyers, owing to its limited range and its slow speed.

In fact, some of the nations are fitting out armored motor boats to combat the submarines, and it has been shown that a vessel of any reasonable speed could run away from a submarine, when indeed it did not choose to pursue the submarine and destroy it.

The results of the submarine campaigns so far do not justify the expectations of their builders. There have been few armed vessels sunk by submarines, almost all the activity in this line having been directed against unarmed and defenseless merchant vessels.

Given the enormous number of submarines that Germany possesses, there should be no British war vessel afloat, if the contention of the submarine advocates were correct. Yet how many British war vessels have been destroyed by the submarines?

The submarine is a very vulnerable sort of craft. Its sides are easily pierced by small shells, and only a shell or two is needed to put the boat out of commission. Its slow rate of progress makes it easy to overhaul in case of pursuit, and even a swift sailing vessel might outsail it and escape.

The project to increase our navy is primarily for defense. But defense also includes the possibility of offensive tactics, without which any system of defense would be weak. The use of submarines is limited, and to create a navy consisting mainly of submarines would be the weakest system of defense possible.

A navy is useless which merely depends upon theoretical sinking of a hostile navy. To be of practical use our vessels must be capable of not only guarding our harbor entrances, but also of pursuing and disabling the hostile vessels. It must also be capable of carrying the war to the enemy's coasts, which is manifestly impossible for submarines.

A convoy of submarines for a fleet of transports would be plainly absurd, for while the little sea vipers were fighting the enemy's ships, the transports would be at the mercy of the vessels throwing heavy metal.

There is a tendency to exaggerate the importance of new inventions. The aeroplane has not revolutionized warfare. It has given the various armies valuable service in scouting, and it has enabled the military forces to terrorize a civilian population. But it has not changed warfare in any sense, and its value is altogether problematical.

Despite the new inventions, warfare is now being conducted much the same as it has been for a century or more. Sea fighting has been reduced to a scientific long range bombardment, instead of the close order attacks of Nelson's day, and there have been few changes since Farragut and Porter fought half a century ago.

Amor plate apparently has reached its highest development. The new guns have a greater range and greater penetration. Torpedoes have not been greatly improved. The use of wireless to direct torpedoes is yet in it's infancy, but science will find a means of combating this style of warfare.

The vessel that throws the heaviest broadside will be the winner in most of the sea fights, despite the work of the submarines, and the navy that has the most and the heaviest ships will gain the victory, all other things being equal.

The new navy will continue to increase in weight of armanent and the size of the vessels, even though the submarines continue to develop. And our future navies will not be composed solely of the undersea boats.

A popular pastime nowadays is endorsing Dallas for the next Democratic National convention. If we remember right, the same practice was indulged in when New Orleans wanted the Panama exposition, but San Francisco went after the bacon in a different fashion.

British authorities say that the Zeelandia was outside of the three-mile limit when searched by a British cruiser. When it gets down to a question of surveying to settle an international dispute the odds are in favor of a satisfactory settlement.

The proposal to reorganize the Frisco railway by lopping off thirty millions of capitalization and reducing the fixed charges nearly one-half shows that that hydrotherapy is indicated, to use a medical expression.

The Ancona outrage is not so great as was first reported. It is now stated that the dead will not exceed one hundred and fifty. Inasmuch as most of these were women and children, Italy cannot expect as much consideration from Austria as if they were all fighting men and therefore useful on the firing line.

COMPLETE APPROACH TO BRIDGE

Street Railway Company Getting Things in Readiness for New Routing of Cars on Laredo Streets.

The work of filling in the east approach to the proposed new bridge of the street railway company, which will diverge from its present route off Market street to the arroyo and cross it on Lincoln street, has been completed up to where the first pier in the concrete work will be installed.

Officials of the car company state that the work of constructing the steel bridge over the ravine at the new place of crossing will begin within a very short time and be rushed to completion as fast as possible.

FOUND TWO LITTLE WANDERERS

Two Small Girls Get Astray From Their Homes and Lost on Streets; Kindly Lady Cares for Them.

Two little ragged-clothed tots, Mexican girls aged aout three and four years respectively, were found wandering about the streets this morning crying and hunting for their mother, but as neither were old enough to know where they were supposed to reside, they were at the mercy of kind people.

Miss Idar, a kindly young lady, took charge of the little wanderers and endeavored to find their parents, but to no avail. Finally she took them to her home, where they were comfortably cared for while search was continued for their mother or father, but whether they were found, was not learned.

ALONE AT LAST.

They sat beneath a painted tree,
Beneath a painted moon;
The villain foiled, 'twas sweet to see
The lovers meet so soon.

They held the center of the stage;
The orchestra's soft drone
Enthralled those of romantic age—
The lovers were alone.

"Alone at last!" he lisped; his arm
Encircled her dear waist;
He would protect her from all harm,
As they the spot-light faced.

Through three long acts they'd tried in vain
To talk of love; to kiss;
But somehow, time and time again,
The villain marred their bliss.

At last the curtain rustled down:
Did he then love his queen?
Ah, no! He asked her with a frown;
"What made you crab my scene?"

SENTENCES PASSED TODAY ON FIVE MEN IN FEDERAL COURT

MAX DAVIS, THE NEGRO, GETS TWO YEARS AT LEAVENWORTH

While Garcia, Charged With Narcotic Law Violation, and Others, Were Given Light Sentences.

Max Davis, charged with attempting to poison a soldier by administering strychnine to him in a bottle of beer; given two years at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Jesus Galindo, charged with purchasing stolen United States property from parties who had taken same from the commissary warehouse at Fort McIntosh; given seven months in Webb county jail to date from time of incarceration—hence his time will expire November 23.

Alfonso Garcia, charged with selling narcotics in violation of the federal law; sentenced to eight months in the county jail. He has been in jail since his arrest and his time expires December 6.

S. W. Madrigal, charged with smuggling; bond forfeiture set aside and fine of $50 imposed following plea of guilty.

Bernardo Ramon, smuggling nine gallons of mezcal, plead guilty and punishment assessed at ninety days in Webb county jail.

The above comprise the list of sentences passed this morning by Federal Judge Burns in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Texas on men who had entered pleas of guilty of the charges against them, the first three having plead guilty on the opening day of court when arraigned before the grand jury.

This afternoon the most important case of the term is scheduled for trial, that of the United States vs. Geronimo Villarreal, charged with smuggling of diamonds valued at $2,236. The trial was deferred this morning until this afternoon pending the arrival of an important witness from Key West, Fla., a party who was here as customs inspector at the time that the alleged smuggling is said to have taken place. The trial of this case will be by jury.

The case against General Geronimo Villareal, former Huertista military commander of Nuevo Laredo, who was yesterday indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of bringing an alien woman into the United States for immoral purposes, will not be tried until the next term. General Villareal was granted bond in the sum of $1,000, which he immediately provided, with Ignacio Benavides as surety. General Villareal was not restrained of his liberty as a result of the new indictment.

Several cases were called and disposed of yesterday afternoon, and in most instances the defendants entered pleas of guilty and were given comparatively light sentences by Judge Burns. Four minor cases against parties who have been in jail for some time were dismissed. Some few minor smuggling cases have been passed up until the next term of court in this city.

BURSTING OF THE BIG TANK INUNDATED NEARBY ROADS

SOME PEOPLE CAUGHT IN WAKE OF ONRUSHING CURRENT.

Thirty-five Hundred Gallon Water Reservoir of Texas-Mexican Road Eurst Yesterday Afternoon.

The antiquated wooden tank of the Texas-Mexican Railway Co. located on the side of the track at the place where Juarez Avenue intersects the right-of-way, abruptly burst yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock and there was a subsequent deluge in the lowlands in that immediate vicinity, the water coming down the roads with a rush that swept everything before it.

The old tank had withstood the elements for many years, had even defied the roar of battle across the boundary line, the tumult of riot years ago on the streets of Laredo and the coming of the vanguard of progress to the town after a decade of genuine lethargy, but yesterday when a gentle norther hit the city its timbers apparently began to contract, the iron bands slipped and the whole "shebang" came to pieces and emptied the contents of the big reservoir on the surrounding neighborhood.

Down the street a short distance from the bursting tank a girl was seen crossing the street, then came the roar of water, she grabbed up her skirts and started to "fly," but alas and alack, poor Yorick, the fair one was caught in the deluge, and held her ground. She was a wee bit scared, but not injured, merely given an involuntary footbath extending to the knees. Then there was an old, old cayuse down the road that saw the onrushing waters and he attempted to run away, but the alfalfa supply given him at noon apparently was very short, for he was in the act of turning around when the oncoming current hit him and made him turn several revolutions. Many funny gyrastics were performed when the bursting of the old tank recalled the episode in which old Noah figured, only everything was caught out in the wet in this affair.

The 3,500 gallons of water from the tank were dispersed in all directions, and a part of it likewise inundated the floor and part of the stored goods in the warehouse of A. Deutz & Bro. nearby. Perhaps the only real damage done was in this place, where some hardware will suffer from the moisture.

"OFF AGAIN; ON AGAIN; GONE!"

Advices Received Here Regarding the Whereabouts of First Chief Say He is Heading for Mexico City.

Paradoxical as it may appear, Carranza is on his way to the Nuevo Laredo country by a much detoured route, according to latest advices received in this city, and that dependent on the fact whether those advices have any foundation or not. The aforesaid advices state that the first chief is leaving Hermanas or Monclova bound for the national capital.

It was reported from Piedras Negras that from that place General Carranza would start on his trip to Nuevo Laredo, but according to advices just published in the big papers through seemingly reliable reports, the big chief is making a long-detoured journey to get to the border, and is going about a thousand miles out of the way. Soon it will become fashionable in the home to have a game called "Carranza's Journey to Nuevo Laredo," and the one who can pick the route and make it come out alright will win the pie, tortilla or whatnot that the prize may be. It would be a great game, for problematical study would be presented that would prove interesting.

Governor Gaballero a Visitor.

General Luis Caballero, governor of the state of Tamaulipas, Mexico, arrived in Laredo this afternoon and was tendered a luncheon at the Club Cafe by some of his friends. Music played and the party feasted and then the whole crowd motored over to Nuevo Laredo, accompanied by several Carranza officers. Governor Caballero is on his way home.

THE LOST WAD.

The bells was ringing 8 o'clock, when to the store came Kate,
She should have come at 7, but the girl did sleep too late;
She was a weary salesgirl, and as she did seem real glum,
She felt beneath the counter for her working wad of gum.
The gum was gone, "Great Hevings!" cried the girl. "Oh, Mag! Oh, Maud!
Some of youse girls came early and has beat me to my wad."
The girls denied that they had took the gum and walked away
But they did hang their heads in shame when Kate she then did say:

Chorus.

"I may be but a working girl, but working girls has rights,
And to preserve that wad of gum I kept it here at nights.
And no girl ain't no lady, and a crook she has become,
Who'd steal from any working girl her only wad of gum."

Believed that as Soon as Allies Demonstrate Ability to Conquer Bulgarians Greece will Join Them in Their Fight Against the Teutons, and Question is No Longer One of Mere Politics.

NEUTRAL NATIONS PROPOSING PEACE

PRESIDENT WILSON ASKED TO CO-OPERATE IN CALLING MEETING IN NEUTRAL CAPITAL.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 12.—David Starr Jordan, head of the International Peace Congress, told President Wilson today that a quasi-official meeting of neutral nations would probably be held before Christmas at some neutral European capital in an attempt to bring about peace. He delivered a resolution from the peace conference asking Mr. Wilson to coperate with other neutrals in calling such a conference. It is stated that Holland, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland and Spain will be glad to participate. Prof. Jordan did not divulge what Mr. Wilson said.

AUSTIN NEWSPAPER DEAD.

By Associated Press.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 12.—Ashur Smoot, a well-known Texas newspaperman, died this morning after a long illness.

CABINET DISCUSSED DEFENSE.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The cabinet at a meeting today discussed the question of how to raise money to carry out the national defense plan. No conclusions were reached. This is the first meeting since July.

MCADOO TO DEFEND SHIP POLICY.

New York, Nov. 12.—The annual gathering of the Academy of Political Science which will be a two-day session devoted to "The American Mercantile Marine," opened here today. The meeting will be the arena in which Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury Department will portray the administrations views of the subject and answer the many critics of this policy and the opposition will be voiced by Hon. John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, who has pronounced views on the merchant marine. All phases of the question, including the La Follette Seamen's act, will be discussed.

READY FOR BIG BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

New York, Nov. 12—William F. Hoppe, Koji Yamada, George F. Slosson, George Sutton, Joseph Mayer and Walter Coohran are the entrants for the handicap billiard tournament at 18-2 balkline, to open on Monday in Music Hall. This is the first handicap meet of the champions. The games will be on a basis of 500 points, with Hoppe going the full distance in each of his matches, and the others obtaining handicaps of from 100 to 200 points.

Although Hoppe is up against a mighty task, he rules favorite in the eyes of the local billiardists. There seems to be no limit to his ability, as he has been demonstrating it during the past few weeks in Boston. Yamada, the wonderful Jap, showed like a novice beside him, and it seemed Hoppe could make endless counts at most any period of his game.

Sutton has put in many months of hard practice at his Michigan farm, and, fully restored to health, he is ready to show his old-time form. His mark of an average of 100 in 18.2 play stood for years until Hoppe smashed it in his match with Sutton at Chicago two years ago. Sutton is granted a handicap of 100 points.

George Slosson is rated with a handicap of 125 and Yamada is given the same advantage in the schedule. Joseph Mayer of Philadelphia, who has developed recently into the spotlight gets a handicap of 175 and Walter Cochran of Chicago has the highest handicap, 200 points. With this advantage, any of the handicapped players has a chance to come through the tournament a winner.

Now Lookout.

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 12.—The publication of the decree dissolving the Greek chamber of deputies was received quietly in Athens, despite the fact that all elements hoped to avoid elections during the present difficult moment. The government apparently found that dissolution was the only means of securing for itself full and undisputed liberty of action. Greek officials here assert that Greece's future actions depend upon military, not political considerations, and that as soon as Greece is convinced that the allies have enough troops to take a successful offensive against Bulgaria, Greece will immediately join the allies.

Berlin says that the Serbians are being driven from their positions south of Keravejo, while southwest of Krusevac fighting continues. Artillery combats continue in three sectors on the Dardanelles. On the western front near Loos spirited bombardments occurred, the French claiming to have silenced the German batteries.

Executed Belgian Spies.

Amsterdam, Nov. 12.—Belgian newspapers announce the execution by Germans of three Belgian spies.

French Defeatec Bulgarians.

London, Nov. 12.—A Saloniki telegram states that the French inflicted a severe defeat on the Bulgarians near Veles, an important place on the Saloniki railroad near Uskup.

British Steamer Sunk.

London, Nov. 12.—The British steamer Rhinelander has been sunk. Only one survivor has landed so far.

Italy Joins in Request.

Peking, Nov. 12.—Italy today seconded the request of Japan, Russia, England and France that the re-establishment of the Chinese monarchy be postponed.

Serbian Army Cut Off.

Milan, Italy, Nov. 12.—There is grave reason to fear that the Serbian army which is fighting the German-Bulgarian right wing has been cut off between Kralievo and Nish, says a news despatch. It is considered significant here that no news has been received from this army, holding out at Katchanik, for five days.

Says No Warning Given.

Naples, Nov. 12.—The owners of the Ancona have received the report of her captain, positively charging that the submarine neither gave warning to the Ancona nor afforded those on board an opportunity to escape. He says he stopped the Ancona when the first shot was fired, but that the submarine continued firing. The captain says he ordered everybody into the lifeboats, after which the submarine turned loose all her guns, killing and wounding many persons. The exact loss of life is still undetermined, although a Times despatch says that 203 are unaccounted for.

State Department Perplexed.

Washington, Nov. 12.—State department officials are perplexed over the unexplained delays in getting official information on the Ancona disaster. The official reports so far make no reference to the question whether the Ancona was warned, the nationality of the submarine or if Americans were lost. A consular official has been ordered to Tunis to secure depositions of the survivors.

No Official Reports.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—No official news has been received here of the sinking of the Ancona. The Austrian government is also understood to be without a report.

English Aeroplanes Shot Down.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—Two British aeroplanes were shot down in an aerial raid on the western front.

Italians to the Balkans.

Milan, Nov. 12.—A Rome telegram says that the Italian cabinet last night agreed to send an expedition to the Balkans.

Hold Bulgarians at Bay.

aSloniki, Nov. 12.—Five thousand Serbians still hold 15,000 Bulgarians at bay in the Babuna defile. The Serbians now control the important mountain positions there which military men here believe will soon cause the Bulgarians to withdraw.

COLD WAVE IS COMING.

According to Weather Prognosticator, Mercury is Going to Take a Tumble Sometime During the Night.

A cold wave is reported to be prevailing in the Northern and Central portions of Texas today and headed toward Laredo, which will mean a big tumble in the temperature and the mercury is expected to be "way down" tomorrow morning.

The only harbinger of the cold wave apparent this afternoon is a thick sky and heavy clouds and a misting rain falling.

HAITI APPROVED PROPOSED TREATY

VIRTUAL AMERICAN PROTECTORATE OVER THE BLACK REPUBLIC MEETS THEIR APPROVAL.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The state department was officially advised today that the Haitien senate has approved the treaty with the United States, providing for a virual American protectorate over Haiti. The treaty will go before the United States senate this winter.

KILLING FROST IN TEXAS.

By Associated Press.

Childress, Texas, Nov. 12.—A killing frost over the Panhandle and southwestern Oklahoma was reported last night.

CITY PLANNERS AT BOSTON

Boston, Nov. 12.—A city planning exhibition opens today the new east wing of the Massachusetts State House. Officials of nearly all of the bigger cities and towns of New England are taking part in the conferences which begin today and extend for ten days. The Homestead Commission arranged the conference as the ideal way to open the new wing of the State House.

POST OFFICE PRINT SHOP AT SEATTLE.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 12—A print shop is being opened in the basement of the local post-office, and Postmaster Edgar Battle has been appointed official printer for the railway mail service of the Pacific Northwest States and Alaska and for the post-office of Seattle, Spokane, Portland and Tacoma. The government has been having this work done outside, and it was decided to purchase a plant and install it here, to care for the rapidly growing business of this section.

MISSOURI STATE AUDITOR FACES TRIAL.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 12.—State Auditor John P. Gordon will appear in Circuit Court on Monday to answer to charges brought against him by Prosecuting Attorney David Peters, that Gordon illegally issued warrants to cover $404.11 the expenses of himself and his son, Morris G. Gordon, supervisor of building and loans, in attending conventions of officials at Salt Lake City and San Francisco. There is no controversy as to the facts. The Auditor claims that he was fully authorized by law to issue these warrants, but the prosecutor takes the contrary view. Auditor Gordon has given bonds for his appearance, and he has promised a fight to the finish. Democrats and Republicans alike signed the bond which Sheriff Goodin holds for the appearance of the State Auditor to answer the charge.

YALE AND COLUMBIA CREWS CLASH.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12—For the first time since their six-car shells raced on Lake Saratoga in 1875, crews representing Yale and Columbia clash on the water today. Eight-oared crews will be pull their rival shells over a course of one mile and seven-eighths in New Haven harbor. Capt. Seth Low, of Yale, has arranged the race, for the New York collegians are the only big crew in the East not defeated by the Elis this year.

Columbia has sent over a goodly sprinkling of students and alumni, and the race will be watched from steamers chartered for the occasion. The Yale Navy will anchor its two chartered steamers near the finish so that the spectators may view the course from Long Warf to Lighthouse Point.

FILE $20,000 DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST STREET RAILWAY

GERALD SIELSKI SEEKS DAMAGES AGAINST TRACTION COMPANY.

Suit is Sequence of Accident Which Befell Sielski on October 19, When He Was Almost Electrocuted.

Suit for personal damages to the extent of $20,000, instituted by his attorneys, Hamilton & Greer, was filed with the clerk of the district court here yesterday by Gerald Sielski against the Laredo Electric & Ry. Co., the litigation growing out of serious personal injuries sustained by the defendant on the morning of October 19, 1915, when he was almost permanently paralyzed by coming in contact with an electrical current on the handgrip of a street car.

As will be remembered from the account of the accident published in the Times on the day that it occurred, Gerald Sielski was in the act of mounting a car on the Heights to come to his work at Nelson's store. He had run up and grabbed the handgrip of the car and was violently precipitated to the ground, being rendered unconscious by the blow and remained in this state for six hours. Temporary paralysis of the entire body ensued, but gradually day by day he regained control of certain parts of his body, but the permanent injury appears to have been to his hips, legs and spine and he is physically disabled from doing manual labor of any kind and barely able to get about with the aid of a cane.

The case will come up for trial at the November term of the district court in this city and the evidence which will be adduced to prove the contentions of the plaintiff may bring out some interesting facts.

RESERVATIONS IN ADVANCE.

Boxes and Reserved Seats For Initial Performance at Royal Theatre Are Very Much in Demance.

That the opulent Royal Opera House has popularized itself far in advance of its formal opening on Thanksgiving evening, is demonstrated by the fact that a great advance demand for boxes and seats have been made by Laredo people and already the supply of available seats in the four boxes on either side of the spacious stage have been exhausted.

The demand for boxes and seats is made in view of the fact that the persons securing them know not what kind of performance will be the opening one, but feel confident that Manager Valdez will exert his best efforts to get the best to be had. Likewise they are making the reservations without knowing for sure the exact amount that will be charged—they are getting their reservations to have accommodations in advance for the opening performance.

The first seat purchased was by Mr. J. Alex MacDonald. Mayor Robert McComb has a box of four seats reserved; Miss Edna Brown, as hostess of a box party on the evening of November 25, has twenty seats reserved. J. B. Harlan, manager of the Laredo Flour Mills, has reserved a box of four seats for the entire season. Robert Ennis has a box reserved for the opening night, and J. J. Jurgens has three reserved seats for the opening night. Others have seats spoken for.

THE ARMENIAN QUESTION.

To The Times:

The last issue of "The Laredo Times" contained an article which attacked Christians because they have not prevented the massacre of the Armenians, or avenged their death. There are some statements in that article that ought to be corrected.

The author shows that it is impossible for any person to live in a Christian country without being influenced by the teachings of Christ even if he rejects the offer of salvation which Christ has given to him. The sentiments which the author expressed when he demanded that Christians show sympathy for the suffering Armenians is a Christian sentiment and it shows that the author has been influenced by the teachings of Christ.

The writer failed to outline a policy for Christians to adopt. There are many persons who are always willing to relieve distress but they want some way whereby they can assist those who are in trouble. Destructive critics never accomplish anything. Critics ought to suggest a better plan than the one which the persons whom they criticize are following.

Let me call your attention to the fact that all that has been done to elevate and educate the Armenians has been done by Christians. The most potent agency in enlightening the Armenians has been Roberts College which was founded by Rev. Cyrus Hamlin who was an American Christian and which was endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Roberts who were American Christians. The Christian doctors, teachers, and missionaries which the American churches have sent to Armenia have brought the blessings of Christianity to that country. Since the Turks have committed the recent outrages against the Armenians our missionaries have by risking their own lives, saved many Armenians from death.

If the writer of that article is sincere in his desire to assist the Armenians, instead of accusing others of neglect, he can join with the Christians of America who are now securing money to assist the oppressed Armenians. If he will send his contribution to Mr. Charles R. Crane, No. 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City, it will be used for these sufferers. On October 17, 1915, a mass meeting was held in New York and a relief committee was appointed, resolutions were passed, an appeal was made to this country for money. A collection was taken at that meeting amounting to $2,500.00.

It would be impossible for the Christians in Laredo to respond to every call that comes to us from the many nations that are suffering from the scourge of war. Opinions differ as to where the need is most urgent. The Red Cross in Mexico tell us that the greatest need is in Mexico. The past report which the Red Cross in Mexico sent to this country says: "The Mexican relief work has not even begun yet; it is a work that is as stupendous as it is imperative. No harassed section of Europe, where the fiercest war in the history of the world has raged, has been reduced to the utter state of helplessness and misery, which is now to be found in Mexico." There are other calls that appeal to me even more than those I have mentioned. These calls for help come from the sufferers who live in Laredo and I would like to test the sincerity of every critic of Christianity and ask why you do not assist those who are the innocent victims of the sins of other persons and who are living in your city. By vote of the citizens of Texas the saloons have been permitted to continue their nefarious business of producing misery and poverty. We have in Laredo, women and children whose tears and cries have been heard only by God. The Sultan is a long distance from Texas but King Alcohol is in our midst and he is responsible for more deaths than the Sultan of Turkey. While I am writing I have in mind women and children who are the innocent victims of the intemperance of the husband. We need your assistance, whatever your creed, and I ask you to become a lifter and not a kicker and join with us in building up, and making better and brighter the world in which we live. Can you suggest any better way than to assist needy persons in Laredo? We want to hear the jingle of the dollars. We are in need of money today and we hope to hear from you.

Secretary of Associated Charities.

THIS IS MY 43rd BIRTHDAY

MISS MAUDE ADAMS.

Miss Maude Aadms, one of the most popular of American actresses, is 43 years old today. She has been before the footlights since she was 16, when she joined E. H. Sothern's company. Her talent was developed even before that, for during her girlhood days in Salt Lake City she frequently appeared in juvenile parts and made a big local hit. Miss Adams was born in Salt Lake City, Nov. 11, 1872. Her mother was the leading woman of a stock company playing there. When she went to New York to join Sothern, she was filled with determination to succeed. The New York public soon recognized the rare talent of the little woman from the West. Soon afterwards she joined the Frohman forces, and it was under the personal eye of the late Charles Frohman that she developed into one of the bright lights of the stage. She was leading woman with John Drew for a number of years, and in 1897 made her great hit as Lady Babbie in The Little Minister. Her portrayal of Barrie's masterpiece brought her world recognition. Next she went to Shakespeare and appeared as Juliet for one season. Later she starred in "As You Like It," and met with success in both. She has also starred in "L'Aiglon," "Quality Street," "Peter Pan," "What Every Woman Knows," "Joan of Arc" and "Chantecler." She is still a high favorite after a long career on the stage, and a season's bookings in the larger cities would seem strange without her.

SIX KNOWN DEAD IN BIG KANSAS STORM

AT LEAST FIFTY INJURED AND BELIEVED FATALITY LIST WILL BE STILL GREATER.

By Associated Press.

Kansas City, Nov. 11.—Six are known to be dead and at least 50 injured, some fatally, as the result of a terrific wind and rain storm in Central Kansas last night which paralyzed wires and made it impossible to reach the stricken district up to noon, and it is believed that the list of dead and injured may go higher. Many reported dead last night were found alive today. The dead are: Great Bend, two; Larned, two; Seyba, one; Derby, one. The storm swept Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa with lesser violence.

Hattersley is charged with disobedience of orders in refusing to answer questions before the brigade examining board.

TELL IT TO THE MARINES.

New York, Nov. 11.—Listen! If you "tell it to the Marines" be quite sure you have it right, for that warring amphibian is not the credulous personage you have always supposed him to be. United States Marine Corps officers have traced the famous saying, "Tell it to the Marines," to none other than our old friend Samuel Pepys, of the Diary renown, the original "first nighter," who tells us that the saying had its origin with Charles II, the merry monarch of England.

"It so befell," the story goes, "that his light-hearted Majesty, with an exceedingly bored expression on his swarthy face, was walking in the shade with the ingenious Mr. Pepsy, secretary to the Admiralty."

"I had speech yesterday at Deptford," said Mr. Pepys, "with the Captain of the 'Defyance,' who hath but lately returned from the Indies, and who told me the two most wonderful things that ever I think I did hear in my life." Among the stories told were of fish flying in the air.

"Fish flying in the air!" exclaimed his Majesty. "Ha, ha, a quaint conceit, which 'twere too good to spoil wi' keeping. What, sir" (he turned and beckoned to Colonel, Sir William Killigrew, of the newly raised maritime regiment on foot, who was following, in close conversation with the Duke of York) "we would discourse with you on a matter touching your element. What say you, Colonel, to a man who swears he hath seen fishes fly in the air?"

"I should say, sire," returned the sea soldier, simply, "that the man hath sailed in Southern seas. For when your Majesty's business carried me hither of late I did frequently see more flying fish in one hour than the hairs of my head in number."

Old Rowley glanced narrowly at the Colonel's frank, weather-beaten face. Then, with a laugh, he turned to the secretary and said: "Mr. Pepys, from the very nature of their calling no class of our subjects can have so wide a knowledge of seas and lands as the officers and men of our loyal maritime regiment. Henceforth, whenevere we cast doubt upon a tale that lacketh likelihood, we will tell it to the Marines—if they believe it, is is safe to say it is true."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases out together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

London, Nov. 11.—Many London newspapers editorially express the opinion that it was a German submarine that sank the Ancona. Accounts by some of the survivors are to the effect that the ship was not sent to the botton without warning. German troops have evacuated the forest district west of Riga because it was transformed into swamps by rains. Serbian front news is vague, but it denied that the Germans have occupied the entire line from Krivelo to Krivolak, as reported yesterday. The Serbians have reached the Kutchanik defile and have occupied the railway on which the Bulgarians bound from Uskup to prisrend have advanced. The Serbian government has been moved to Krusevo, east of Perlepe. Nothing important is reported from the other fronts.

British Steamer Sunk.

London, Nov. 11.—The British steamship Caria has been sunk by a submarine. The crew was saved.

No Signal to Stop.

London, Nov. 11.—A Tunis despatch says the commander of the Ancona, who reached there Thursday, declares the Austrian submarine commander gave the Ancona no signal to stop, the first sign of the presence of the submarine being shells fired from a distance of five miles, some of which grazed the steamer. The submarine stopped dead. The Ancona's captain says that subsequently a shell hit the boats ready from launching, killing and wounding many passengers in the boats and on deck. Some of the passengers were thrown into the water, approached the submarine but were repelled. The final shells and the torpedoes were fired from a distance of 300 yards.

Less Than 150 Lost.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Fewer than 150 lives were lost on the Ancona, according to consular advices. The missing today stood at 149, but it was confidently believed that more would be reported saved. Secretary Lansing today instructed that statements be taken from survivors wherever they land. Oficials here are greatly concerned because of the possibility that there were American victims.

American Among Victims.

Naples, Nov. 11.—Pasquale Laurine, an American, is among the Ancona missing, according to information here.

Bulgarians Still Advancing.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—Bulgarian troops have crossed the Moravia river at several places, according to official statements, and in the mountains south of western Moravia 4,000 Serbian prisoners were taken.

Bulgarians Are Concentrating.

Paris, Nov. 11.—A Saloniki despatch says that the Bulgarians have retired from Babuna, Serbia, and are now concentrating before the French around Certa. Heavy fogs are interfering with their operations.

Was Outside Limit.

Washington, Nov. 11.—British authorities here say that the Zeelandia, according to reports, was outside of the three-mile limit at Progreso when searched by a British cruiser.

Cannonading in the Baltic.

Copenhagen, Nov. 11.—Violent cannonading was heard in the vicinity of the Fehmarn belt in the Baltic Sea, 37 miles east of the entrance to Kiel harbor. It is believed to be a British submarine attack on German warships.

New War Committee.

London, Nov. 11.—England's new war committee of the cabinet during the temporary absence of Lord Kitchener will consist of Premier Asquith, Alfred J. Balfour, Andrew Bonar Law and Reginald McKenna.

HAIR TONIC NOT A MEDICINE, SAYS U. S.

New York, Nov. 11.—Hair tonic cannot be regarded as a "medicine preparation" according to a decision rendered here by the Board of General Appraisers who settle tariff squabbles. Collector Malone classified some hair tonic as a toilet article but the importer claimed the lower rate on medicines should apply.

A Wonderful Antiseptic.

Germs and infection aggravate ailments and retard healing. Stop that infection at once. Kill the germs and get rid of the poisons. For this purpose a single application of Sloan's Liniment not only kills the pain but destroys the germs. This neutralizes infection and gives nature assistance by overcoming congestion and gives a chance for the free and normal flow of the blood. Sloan's Liniment is an emergency doctor and should be kept constantly on hand. 25c., 50c. The $1.00 size contains six times as much as the 25c.

FRISCO RAILWAY IS TO BE RECOGNIZED

PLANS PROVIDE FOR THE REDUCTION OF CAPITALIZATION AND TO LOWER FIXED CHARGES.

By Associated Press.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 11.—Plans for the reorganization of the St. Louis and San Francisco railway submitted to the public service commission here today provide for a reduction in capitalization of nearly thirty millions and a reduction in fixed charges of about 47 per cent. An early decision is expected.

AGED VETERAN DEAD.

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 11.—Atlanta, Ga., was selected as the next meeting place of the Southern Medical Association. Dr. Robert Wilson of Charleston, S. C., was elected president. Dallas was endorsed for the Democratic National convention.

AGRICULTURE DAY IN OHIO.

Columbus, O., Nov. 11.—Tomorrow will be "Agriculture Day" throughout the State and the blessings of nature's bounty will observe in the schools, in rural societies and similar organizations. The State Board of Agriculture has decided to continue the state-wide spelling contest, the trips of the corn boys to the state fair, and has endorsed the creation of boys' and girls' clubs and the federation of all local clubs into an organization in harmony with the work of the National Department of Agriculture.

THE RISE OF A RURAL JOURNALIST.

We bought the Courier on credit from the editor of Sand Mountain News. If turkey gobblers had been selling for 10 cents a dozen we didn't have money enough to buy a feather out of a snowbird's tail, but we borrowed $10 from Jack Frazier at Fort Wayne and went to it. We have since bought a big cylinder press, two or three hundred dollars worth of type and a wooden leg, which cost us a round hundred bucks, and are still hard up as can be, but we have built up the best little newspaper and job office in the State.—Collinsville (Ala.) PLANNING SHAKESPEARE TERCENTENNARY.

New York, Nov. 11.—A large committee of prominent Americans is arranging the programme for the celebration in New York and throughout the country of the tercentennial of William Shakespeare. Already Boston has begun the observance of the event, in a series of lectures on the famous bard and his influence on English civilization. The celebration here will run in one form or another virtually all through the winter, and will be concluded during the spring. An outdoor masque especially planned by Percy MacKaye will be produced in the Spring.

The first part of the big literary celebration is to consist of a city-wide participation by the schools, colleges, social settlements, recreation centers, playgrounds, clubs, churches, etc. The second part will consist of the production of a number of Shakespeare's plays, including the less familiar ones. Then will come the third part, in Mr. MacKaye's community masque.

The community masque will include scenes from the poet's plays, introducing the most popular characters, interpreted by the best known dramatic artists. Choral dance and processional elements will be introduced, and thousands of amateurs will take part.

From Wednesday's Daily.

UNREST IN INDIA.

The news despatches state that Earl Kitchener is going to India and perhaps to Egypt to forestall the attempts of the Germans and Turks to foment disturbances in those two British dominions, and that the unrest in India is far greater than was known to anyone outside of British official circles.

It has been apparent for some time that a determined effort was being made to arouse the people of India against the British, but that has been the case ever since the British government took over the rule of the old East India company and became responsible for the destinies of the Indian people.

There is one thing that militates against an Indian combine in rebellion against the British rule, and that is the jealousy of the varied units of the Indians themselves. Not only do the Mohammedan Indians hate and despise the Brahmins and the other sects in India, but between the people of the various provinces and states there is a racial hatred that prevents their uniting as a people.

There are many millions of Mohammedans in India, and they all hate and despire the followers of Buddha and Brahma, whom they stigmatize as idolaters. Indeed, their feeling against the people of other faiths is as bitter as it is against the Christians.

On the other hand, the various sects of Hindoo religions hate not only the Christians and the Mohammedans, but each other. And the hundreds of differing religions in that swarming population militate against any idea of unity.

From the hardy highlanders to the debased and softened men of the plains, all feel the yoke of the foreigner, yet many of the better educated class recognize the fact that they are better governed and less oppressed than under their ancient rulers.

There are few more loyal troops in the world than the native troops of the British rule in India. The officers are unanimous in this statement, and the history of the country since the Sepoy rebellion bears out their report.

Some of these men are Mohammedans, while others follow some of the many other religions of Hindustan, but their religious beliefs are respected by their Christian masters, and a severe punishment is meted out to anyone who abuses a native because of his religious belief.

The Germans have a strong argument for the Mohammedans in their aliance with Turkey, and the Sheik-ul-Islam, the pope of Mohammendanism, has shown himself disposed to declare a Jehad, or holy war. But the questiou is whether the Mohammedans of India will obey the decree of the Turkish ecclesiastic or hold to their faith with the British.

The Mohammedans of India have in past times refused to join their co-religionists in other lands against the English. And even the Mohammedans of Egypt have not shown a disire to rise against the British rule because of the Turkish aliance with Germany.

The Indian and Egyptian Mohammedans have always held a certain contempt for the Turk, the latter even hating the Turk because of race differences. And in the Soudan the word of the Mahdi was of more weight than that of the Padishah, or ruler, of Turkey.

Lord Kitchener is greatly respected and loved by those over whom he has ruled. In Egypt his influence was much greater than that of any native, even the Khedive, and his presence among the disaffected troops of Egypt may have the effect of concentrating their loyalty to the British crown.

At any rate, there is no tradition that makes the German the friend of the Mohammedan, either of Turkey, Egypt or India. And the underhand work of the present does not promise much for Germany or Turkey.

THE FATHERLAND LAUGHS.

While the world stands aghast at the horrible tales of slaughter of Armenian women and children, The Fatherland, the organ of the German empire in America, has a caricature representing John Bull working a pair of puppets labeled "Armenian" and "Turk," with the implied charge that the reports of Turkish atrocities are falsehoods disseminated by the British to discredit the noble allies of the Teutons.

This is not the first time that the Turks have been guilty of the massacre of Christians, but it is the first time on record that Germany has shown a cynical disregard of humanity and has laughed at the sufferings of women and children at the hands of brutal savages.

It is also the first time that Germany has ever allied herself with the Mussulman, which may explain why it seems necessary to discredit all the tales of Turkish atrocities by insinuating that they are inventions.

The stories of massacre, violation and enslavement of the Armenians by the Turks do not come from Great Britain. They come from our own ambassador at the Turkish court, and from dozens of American missionaries on the very ground where the massacres have been committed.

From the time that the German race was converted to Christianity, it has shown a most commendable disposition to do all in its power to defend the Christian faith and to fight against the heathen hordes that attack Christians.

The ancient order of the Teutonic Knights was one of the first to enlist in the crusades for the possession of the Holy Land. The German rulers from the earliest ages have been loyal defenders of the Christian faith.

But this new alighnment with the Turk seems to have shattered the early ideals of the German Christians, and feeling that among the other nations there is none so poor as to do the Turk reverence, they have accepted the obligation of defending his vile practices, indirectly at least, by protesting that the charges are false.

The syllogism seems to be: The charges are made by the British; the British are notoriously perfidious; ergo, the charges must be false. This style of reasoning has reached its climax of absurdity during the present war, especially since the sinking of the Lusitania.

The truth is that no one is in better condition to know the truth of the charges against the Turk than his German allies. Constantinople is filled with German officers, who haughtily refuse to hobnob with the Turk, although they will use him to hold the last line of defense against the Entente allies. The reports of the Turkish atrocities are made direct to the Turkish capital, and it is impossible that the Germans should fail to know of them.

Some day this championship of the unspeakable Turk is going to cost the Germans dearly. The bulk of the German people are not going to permit the staining of their ancient fame by complicity in these atrocities. It is true that Germany is not in any condition to make a serious protest at present, for she needs the aid of Turkey. But the decent people will feel that Germany should never have placed herself in such a position that she could not protest vigorously against the atrocities.

Our attitude of neutrality prevents us from doing more than entering a protest. It is very probable that among the Armenians slaughtered were some who had become American citizens. But for the present we cannot do more than inform the Sublime Porte that we protest in the name of humanity against the slaughter of thousands of helpless women and children, and ask that the abominable practices cease.

It is but another act which proves that the Turk is an anachronism in this present day and age. And the sooner Europe is freed from his contaminating presence the sooner will the dawn of civilization come.

China has decided not to make any change in its present form of government this year. That is, there are almost two months for the republic to endure, after which almost anything may be expected.

Army oficers are quoted as being of the opinion that border conditions will remain settled—for a few weeks, at least. Apparently the army officers are well informed, as no one can promise a longer period of quiet than a few weeks.

The revolutionists in Guatemala have defeated President Cabrera's troops, which will be joyful news to all those of revolutionary tendencies everywhere. But as it does not affect our border, we should worry.

The Southern Medical Association was told, as if it were news, that the army medical corps was unprepared at the time of the Spanish war. It must be that the doctors don't read current history in the newspapers, or they would not have needed that information.

WORK WEARS ON THE KIDNEYS.

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Laredo.

Many Laredo people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk—riding on jolting wagons or cars—doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys and bad backs. Their effective work in Laredo is convincing proof of merit.

Juan S. Cortez, barber, 1702 Hidalgo St., Laredo, says: "After being on my feet a good deal, my back gets sore and lame and makes me miserable and unable to do my work with pleasure. My kidneys also become irregular in action and the kidney secretions pass too often. Doan's Kidney Pills never fail to benefit me quickly, curing me of the backache and regulating the passages of the kidney secretions."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Cortez had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

EVEN PRAIRIES DECORATED.

Nuevo Laredo is in Gala Attire For Coming of Carranza, and Decoration Plan Extends to Prairies.

Patriotic enthusiasm has unlimited bounds sometimes when it becomes rampant and spreads in all directions, drawing within its embrace everything in sight, and then some. And this is the kind of patriotism that is obvious in Nuevo Laredo just now, and even in the surrounding country.

Nuevo Laredo is elaborately decorated with flags and bunting in honor of the coming (some day) of First Chief Carranza, and double arches span some of the street intersections. But that is not what has caused mention of the "preparedness" for the coming of Carranza. A gentleman arriving here from Monterey yesterday says that "even the prairies are decorated in honor of the coming of Carranza to Nuevo Laredo," and that for a distance of about forty miles along the line of the National Railways one every few miles observes a large Mexican flag fluttering from an improvised flagstaff on the side of the track's right-of-way.

THIS IS MY 74th BIRTHDAY

JUDGE RICHARD S. TUTHILL.

Judge Richard Stanley Tuthill, of Chicago, who organized the original Juvenile Court which has extended throughout the United States and other countries, is 74 years old today. It was in 1899, under a new Illinois law, that Judge Tuthill was chosen by his brother judges of the Circuit Court of Illinois to organize and hold the court for young criminals and delinquents. He conducted this court for six years, and was eminently successful, mainly through his love for boys and his close study of juvenile ways. Judge Tuthill was born in Vergennes, Ill., Nov. 10, 1841. He was graduated from Middlebury College, in Vermont, and entered the army in 1863, serving as a scout in the forces of Gen. John A. Logan. After the war he was admitted to the bar and practiced in Nashville. He was state's attorney until his removal to Chicago in 1873. In Chicago he became city attorney and later U. S. District Attorney. Since 1887 he has been on the Illinois Circuit bench. Judge Tuthill has married three times, his present wife being Susan Payne Trimble Tuthill, who married the Judge four years ago.

EXPERTS PLAN NATIONAL BASIS FOR UTILITY VALUES.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—This city today became battleground of the experts of the United States, who met in convention to make an effort to reach a common ground upon the important question as to the fair and standard basis for valuation of public utitilties. The wide discrepancy between the valuations set by private corporations and the valuations upon the same public service utitlities set by the representatives of the city, state and national governments is an ever-present and ever-increasing feature of controversies on capitalization charges and service rendered the public.

It is expected that the experts gathering here today will reach some general conclusions on the subject. There are two views generally taken concerning valuations of public service plants, and these are widely divergent. Yet there is a good opportunity for compromise, it is stated, through the admission as legitimate assets of certain things that do not enter into intrinsic value.

For the most part, the experts representing the government, city, state and nation, are adhering to a theory of making the valuation of public utilities based essentially on cost, or what is technically known as the historical method. Their view is that the money that has been actually paid out in its upbuilding is the one essential element and that other issues simply modify the conclusions reached on the cost basis.

On the other hand, the private interests, both municipal, and interstate, hold that the true test of the value of the property is what it would cost to reproduce it today. They even go so far as to seriously include the cost of breaking a pavement to lay a conduit when no pavement existed over the conduit when it was laid, and other similar factors.

The first of a series of conferences between the railroads of the country and the Interstate Commerce on the valuation of steam railroads was recently held in Washington, and there developed the widest possible difference of opinion as to the principles on which the government should formulate its country-wide valuation of railroads.

The convention will open this evening on the roof garden of the Hotel Adelphia and will extend until Friday evening. Mayor Rudolph Blankenburg will preside tonight, and after remarks by Director Cooke of the Utilities Bureau of this city, papers will be read by John M. Eshleman, Lieut.-Governor of California, and H. Findlay French of Baltimore.

Other speakers will be Prof. Edward W. Bemis, a member of the Advisory Board of Valuations of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who will open the discussion on the original cost as the chief basis for fair value, Charles L. Pillsbury, chief engineer for the Interstate Commerce Commission, George W. Anderson of New York, Henry E. Elrod of Dallas, Tex., F. W. Ballard of Cleveland, and R. J. Meigs of the Western Union Telegraph Co.

Also on the programme are Dr. Delos F. Wilcox of New York, Frederick P. Stearns of Boston, Dr. Chas. R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin, Prof. John H. Gray of the University of Minnesota and Milo R. Maltbie, of the advisory board of the Inerstate Commerce Commision.

The majority of the speakers will represent the public side of the controversy on valuations. But for every session, speakers will be provided to present the side of private capital. It is hoped that through this interplay of views what will amount to a verdict can be rendered on at least some of the phases of the complicated problem.

Many Public Service Commissioners from the States of the Union have arived for the convention, and nearly every state is represented.

SENTENCES OF SMUGGLERS FEATURED COURT WORK TODAY

MEN AND WOMEN SENTENCED, BUT MOST OF THEM FREED.

As Sentences Were Made to Conform to the Time They Have Been Restrained of Their Liberty.

Up to yesterday afternoon the grand jury in the federal court had returned a total of six bills of indictment, and this morning they returned ten more indictments, all the parties being in jail or out on bond. Today, however, up to noon, has been "sentence" day, as Judge Burns summoned several of the indicted parties before him, asked them as to their disposition to plea guilty or not guilty, and acordingly meted out the punshment he deemed commensurate with the crimes they had committed.

Those sentenced this morning by Judge Burns, after each and every one of the culprits had plead guilty, were the following:

Toribio Llanes, charged with importing, having in his possession and selling narcotics; plead guilty and given six months and five days in jail. In view of the fact that he had served the time already he was discharged from custody.

Minnie Bishop, charged with importing and selling narcotics; plead guilty. Sentenced to seven months in jail, and having served that time in the Webb county jail, was dismissed.

Juana Martinez and Isidora de la Rosa, receiving, concealing and selling smuggled merchandise; plead guilty. Sentenced to ten days each in the Webb county jail.

Mariano Martinez, charged with smuggling merchandise; plea of guilty. Sentenced to fifteen days in the Webb county jail.

Nicolas Silva, also charged with smuggling; not sentenced yet.

GRAND OPENING UF ROYAL THANKSGIVING MORNING

WITH MUSIC ON HAND, DOORS BE THROWN OPEN TO PUBLIC.

On Same Evening the Inaugural Performance, Given by First-Class Musical Comedy, Occurs.

According to announcement made to the Times by Manager Valdez, Thanksgiving Day will be an event-making day in the history of Laredo, for on that day the doors of the magnificent and majestic Royal Opera House will be thrown open to the public and music, furnished by the Ninth Infantry Band, will float on the air from early in the morning until late that afternoon.

"Thanksgiving Day is going to mark our grand opening," said Manager Valdez, "and on that day we cordially invite all the people of Laredo to call at our magnificent new home and go through and inspect one of the most modern and best equipped opera houses in the state of Texas—a building and its appointments on which no expense has been spared and which will be the pride of the people of Laredo.

"Throughout the day of November 25 (Thanksgiving) we will keep open house," said Mr. Valdez, "and music will be on hand playing the best of selections. That night the inaugural performance will take place—a high-class musical comedy organization brought to Laredo direct from off a prominent circuit and at a great expense."

When Laredo citizens walk into the Royal Opera House and behold the beautiful furnishing and appointments on the interior they will be amazed at the revelation—they will stare and stand there and commend those who are responsible for the building of a modern playhouse in this city.

Her Son Subject to Croup.

"My son Edwin is subject to croup," writes Mrs. E. O. Irwin, New Kensington, Pa. "I put in many sleepless hours at night before I learned of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mothers need not fear this disease if they keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and use it as directed. It always gave my boy relief." Obtainable everywhere. *

SIR PERTAB SINGH

Loyal to the empire, the East Indians are doing their full share toward winning final victory for the entente allies in the great war. Early in the war when the expeditionary forces were being mobilized and equipped, Sir Pertab Singh, a seventy-year-old Indian prince who had seen active service in the past, organized and equipped at his own expense almost an army corps of his subjects and offered both himself and his men to King George. Sir Pertab Singh has distinguished himself with his command with the British forces in France.

THIS IS MY 59th BIRTHDAY

COL. JOHN T. GRAVES.

Col. John Temple Graves, noted southern orator and journalist, now speaking in Southern cities in the interest of national defense, is 59 years old today. In early life he was a newspaper reporter, and at 25 was editor of a newspaper in Jacksonville. Later he went to Atlanta, where he edited several daily newspapers, and became part owner of the Daily Georgian. Since its purchase by Hearst he has been connected with the Hearst publications. He is a prolific writer. His articles on universal peace by arbitrationtion created great interest in the subject, and in the south he has been the leader of the movement for the separation of the black and white races. Col. Graves was born in Abbeville County, South Carolina, on Nov. 9, 1856, the son of General James P. Graves. He is descended from the Calhoun family, noted for oratory. He studied at the University of Georgia, then entered journalism. At one time he was a candidate for the U. S. Senate from Georgia, but he withdrew on account of his health. In 1908 he was the candidate of the National Independence Party for Vice-President. He has been the orator on many notable occasions in the North and South. Col Graves is a progressive, and is ready at all times to take up the cudgels for measures that aim for popular benefit.

FROM THE EDUCATOR'S NOTE-BOOK.

Hampton, Va.,—The auditorium to be erected at Hampton Institute in memory of Robert Curtis Ogden will be less the memorial of a man than the monument of an epoch. Mr. Ogden and the men who labored with him led the movement that brought co-ordinating organization to the education of the South. In successive conferences for education, begun in 1898, and continued to the end of his life, one city after another, one State after another, was aroused to the consciousness of its own efforts, the work already done, the need that remained and the necessity of treating the problem of education in the South as a whole. He organized the Southern Education Board, which effected the co-operation that was needed. In fourteen years illiteracy among the whites of the South was cut in half. This great forward step no one State, no one school system, no one organization or no one man, accomplished It is the joint work of all the forces which make up the greater South. But among them all, Robert C. Ogden led.

Teheran, Persia—Education throughout Persia is showing evidence of a new liberalism. In the school recently opened for the daughters of Persian parents, as well as in the schools of the French Alliance and the schools founded by American and Germany in Persia, girls are attending in increasing numbers, but with provision that they shall retain the veil. The young Persians, especially the sons of aristocrats who have been educated in Europe, are eager for the emancipation of women and desire to find in the educated companions. The tendency is toward the abolition of the veil among Persian women and the acceptance of education.

ouisville, Ky.—The results achieved by the "Moonlight Schools" in the Kentucky mountains form one of the most encouraging chapters in American education. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, superintendent of the Rowan County Schools, writes of the results as follows: "We expected to enroll a straggling few, but found how eagerly adults welcome an opportunity when 1,200 came the first evening. We taught persons from 18 to 86 years of age that year, having two sessions of two weeks each. The next year we had a six-weeks session and enrolled 1,600. In these two years we taught more than 6,000 people to read and write. During the autumn of 1913, we made an effort to completely wipe out illiteracy. We enrolled 2,500 persons, taught all illiterates in the county, but 23 of these being 'impossibles.' Meanwhile eight other counties in Kentucky tried the method with success the second year, and twenty five adopted it the following year."

Des Moines, Ia.,—The survey commission appointed by Dr. Philander P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, to make a survey of the Iowa state educational institutions is already at work. Yesterday they began the personal inspection at the State University at Iowa City. This is the first survey of its kind undertaken since the establishment of its department of education. The members af the commission will recommend additions and changes in the courses at the various institutions, including the state agricultural college and the state normal school at Cedar Falls.

Washington.—The spelling book has followed the bayonet in the Philippines ever since the United States began to extend control over these islands, until now there are 4,300 schools taught by 10,000 teachers, and enrolling more than 600,000 pupils. These facts were laid before the Lake Mohonk conference recently by Frank L. Crone, director of education in the Philippines. The school system, he added, is maintained by the Filipino people and is a source of no expense to the United States.

Chicago, Ill.,—Twenty four of the public schools of Chicago have been recommended by Supt. Ella Flagg Young for use as social centers, to be open two evenings a week, beginning this week. She also recommends that the assembly halls of the same schools be available to the public welfare department of the city for to the needs of neighborhood meeting places.

KITCHENER'S MISSION IS TO SOLVE THE INDIAN TROUBLES WHICH ARE MENACING

Unrest in India and Egypt Causes Much Anxiety to Great Britain, and the Teutons and Turks are Industriously Working to Promote Disaffection Among Asiatic Subjects of King George.

BELIEVED BORDER WILL BE QUIET NOW

VILLA EXPECTED IN NOGALES TO INVESTIGATE THE ALLEGED DISAFFECTION OF HIS TROOPS.

By Associated Press.

Nogales, Arizona, Nov. 9.—Maj. Gen. Funston left today for San Antonio. Army officers believe that border conditions will be settled for a few weeks, at least. Uneasiness is manifested concerning Nogales, Sonora, however, where Villa is expected to arrive tonight to investigate the reported disaffection of his troops.

FOR MEDICAL INCREASE.

By Associated Press.

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 9.—Increase of the medical corps of the army and navy in preparation for National defense was considered by the Southern Medical Association today. The convention was told that the medical corps was unprepared in the Spanish war. The matter was referred to a council for action.

FRISCO'S FAREWELL TO LIBERTY BELL.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, Senator Newlands of Nevada and Senator Phelan of California will be among the speakers at the banquet tonight which will be given by the city as a farewell to the Liberty Bell.

ATLANTIC COAST WATERWAYS CONVENTION OPENS.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 9—The eighth annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association opens here this afternoon. All of the states from Massachusetts to Florida that border on the Atlantic have sent delegates. Their main purpose is to establish a chain of inside waterways that will make for quicker and safer transportation along the coast, avoiding the treacherous reefs of Point Judith, Cape Hatteras and other projections of the coast line.

The steamship Persian arrives today from Philadelphia with a big delegation, and other chartered steamers brought large parties from New York and Baltimore. Among the delegates are Congressmen, Mayors, Senators and industrial leaders.

Three members of President Wilson's cabinet are expected to address the big convention during its four-day session. One of these is Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield, who will speak on "Waterways as an Aid to Commerce." Secretary Josephus Daniels of the Navy Department is also expected to speak on the naval defense advantages of deep coast waterways. A third member of the Cabinet is also expected.

Congressman J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania will preside at this afternoon's opening session. After the official welcomes and responses, the convention will organize, committees will be appointed, and the delegates will then disband and make ready for the great reception and ball tendered by the city.

One of the purposes of this year's convention is an impressive demonstration of the widespread demand for adequate recognition at the next Congress of commercial necessities in the East. The principal chambers of commerce, boards of trade and commercial organizations will take part in this demonstration. It is pointed out that the filibuster and the later compromise in Congress over appropriations for waterways resulted in the elimination of appropriations for new projects such as the Association is urging.

It will also be pointed out that the defense of the Atlantic Coast from any foreign attck will be made more secure by the inside waterways, wherein submarines, the modern weapons of defense, can operate and thus be concentrated at any point of attack.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT IS ON.

Webb County Commissioners Convened in Regular Quarterly Session at Courthouse Yesterday Morning.

The members of the Webb county commissioners court assembled at the courthouse in this city yesterday morning, when Judge Page convened the regular quarterly session of that court and the work before them was taken up.

All of yesterday and up to noon today had been devoted to the transaction of routine business.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Earl Kitchener's ultimate mission is said by confidential information here today to be India, where the British rule is confronted with a more serious state of unrest than has generally been known outside of British official circles.

This information, not subject to censorship, says that one of the most influential native princes who was a staunch British supporter has been deposed as the Nizam of Hyderabad, bringing to a climax successive reports of mutinous unrest in India and Egypt. While Kitchener probably will stop in the Balkan theater, his ultimate destination is not only India, but Egypt, where the British gateway to Asia is menaced by Teutonic successes in the Balkans and where the Turkish and German agents are persistently conducting a propaganda among the natives. The last state department reports from British Asia were received more than two months ago, giving details of the native mutiny at Singapore, when all the officers and practically all the troops of one British regiment were killed.

Steamer Was Afire.

New York, Nov. 9.—Fire in the hold of the passenger steamer Rochambeau has been extinguished and the steamship is proceeding to Bordeaux, according to a wireless from Captain Juham this morning. The passengers are safe. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Former Dacia Sunk.

Algiers, Nov. 9.—The French steamship Yser, formerly the Dacia, which was seized by a French cruiser last February while carrying cotton from the United States to Germany, has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. The Dacia was sold and renamed by the French prize court. The passengers and crew were landed safely. The Dacia formerly belonged to the Hamburg-American line, but was sold and changed to American registry just before she was seized by the French.

Greece Wants Loan.

Paris, Nov. 9.—The Greek government is reported to have appealed to the Entente allies for an additional advance of 40,000,000 francs and this request is being considered sympathetically.

Japan is Reassuring.

Kioto, Japan, Nov. 9.—Japan has reassured the powers that she has no intention of making a military or naval demonstration against China in connection with pending negotiations for the postponement of the re-establishment of the monarchy, if such change in the form of government be adopted.

Infantry Activities Renewed.

London, Nov. 9.—Infantry activities have been renewed in the vicinity of Loos in France and a violent bombardment occurred near Beauvragnes while there was spirited artillery firing in Champagne. Premier Skouloumis of Greece is quoted as declaring that the Greek chamber of deputies may be dissolved unless it supports the new Grecian cabinet. It is hinted that Italy may aid Serbia indirectly by sending troops to Albania to meet the threatened Bulgarian invasion of that country, according to Rome despatches. Reported changes in the Russian cabinet are partly confirmed by the Petrograd announcement of the retirement of Agriculture Commissioner Krivoshein. Berlin reports the capture of the main Serbian positions south of Kralievo. The central powers and Bulgaria now control about two-thirds of Serbia, but not without weakening their other fronts, as indicated by the Russian advance on the Piga-Dvinsk front.

Germans Captured Serbians.

Berlin, Nov. 9.—Ten heavy guns and forty other cannon and 7,000 Serbian prisoners were captured when the Germans took Krusevac yesterday. South of Krusevac the German advance continues. Hindenburg's troops are still fighting desperately with the Russians on the Dvinsk front.

To Make No Change.

Peking, Nov. 9.—The Associated Press was authorized today to state that the Chinese government has decided to make no change this year in the present form of government.

CABRERA'S TROOPS WHIPPED BY REBELS

GUATEMALAN REVOLUTIONISTS WERE SUCCESSFUL IN THE FIGHT AGAINST GOVERNMENT FORCES.

By Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 9.—The defeat of the forces of President Cabrera of Guatemala by the revolutionists was reported today to the Mexican consul here from Mexico City. The revolutionists attacked the government troops at Ixtatam.

FEDERAL LEAGUE MAGNATES MEET.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 9.—The magnates of the Federal League met here today, to repair its fences and lay plans for its future. Although the death of Robert S. Ward has removed one of the strongest supports of the "outlaw" organization, the band of moguls appeared confident as they gathered.

While nothing is given out as to just what the Federals will do in the immediate future, it is assumed that they will decide to carry through their original plans, with slight shifts here and there. The report that the league will reduce to six clubs is not credited by baseball men. Although the Baltimore, Kansas City and Buffalo clubs had hard sledding in their finances last year, it is not believed any of them will be dropped, save one, in event the deal to put a club into New York City goes through.

The baseball war is now altogether beneath the surface, and there is less of that bitter open controversy between the rival factions. Whatever is going on, it is believed that a climax will be reached this winter, with an excellent possibility of peace. It is said that the main stumbling block to a peaceful arrangement whereby the big leagues will make some sort of truce is the person of Ban Johnson, president of the American League. Ban has persisted in saying that the Federals were "all in."

NATIONAL GUARD CONVENTION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—The annual convention of the National Guard Association of the United States opened here this morning, and this meeting promises to be the most important in the history of the organization. The Association has been for many years the strongest factor in promoting the interests of the organized militia and securing federal legislation and appropriations for the state troops. The principal officers in the National Guard of the various states have gathered here today to consider what shall be their attitude toward the plans of the federal administration to organize a new civilian army.

Many of the foremost military authorities of the country believe the American system of State militia is fundamentally wrong and that no adequate reserve can be created upon the basis of utilizing the National Guard of the several states. The widely differing laws of the various states governing the military forces, the faculty methods of selecting officers which now prevails in many instances, the varying appropriations of the various states, all tend to interfere with the carrying out of any comprehensive scheme of providing a uniform force that can be relied upon in case of emergency, is claimed.

On the other hand, the leaders in the existing National Guard believe that next to a strong standing army, the creation of a strong reserve army through the medium of the organized militia is the best and most practical answer to the problem. It is maintained by the officials here today that with the greater financial assistance from the federal government and under the operation of the pending militia pay bill, the National Guard can be brought to a satisfactory strength and standard of efficiency even in those states which have made little progress.

A DIPLOMATIC TANGLE.

Complaint is being made by the Carrancistas that George C. Carothers, special agent of the state department, acted in an improper manner at the recent battle of Agua Prieta, and that he is a active agent of Villa.

State department officials, on the other hand, state that there has been no communication between Carothers and Villa since the former became detached from the latter after the recognition of the Carranza government.

There has been much comment as to the connection of Carothers with Villa as well as the connection of former consul John Silliman with Carranza. Few could understand the reason for our state department being represented officially at the headquarters of the two faction leaders, especially as we had no diplomatic representative in Mexico and did not recognize any government in that country.

It seems that the functions of Silliman and Carothers were merely those of observers with the military headquarters of the two factions, and that their only duties were to keep our government idformed as to the conduct of affairs by the two rival leaders.

But the Mexicans have given greater importance to the presence of the two consular representatives. On several occasions they have reported that Carothers gave his official sanction to the acts of Villa, while Silliman seems to have done more than merely make his official reports of happenings at the Carranza headquarters.

The Carrancista officials have charged that Carothers was aiding Villa to carry on his campaign against his enemies, while the Villistas claimed that Silliman was openly advising Carranza in his correspondence with our government.

It is a question just what good the presence of these two semi-official representatives of our state department with two opposing factions of the Mexicans secured, especially as it does not appear that either of them had the slightest authority to commend or disapprove the actions of the two leaders.

It is another example of the mistakes made by the administration in the Mexican matter. The presence of the consular representative at either headquarters was calculated to express friendliness for the respective faction, and the spectacle was presented of the representatives of a neutral government apparently lending encouragement to two opposing factions while our government announced that it recognized neither.

While Duval West was making his investigations of Mexican affairs, the two consular representatives were sending in separate and conflicting reports as to conditions, and the result was that Mr. West's findings were practically discredited by the reports of Silliman and Carothers.

Worse than this, the Carrancistas on several occasions charged Carothers with being engaged in shady transactions in Villa territory, and it was openly asserted in the public prints that Carothers was a crook. This naturally was not calculated to reflect credit on the representative of a great nation, no matter what his official position.

Just what the presence of Silliman and Carothers has accomplished for good seems problematical. No direct act of either has been announced by the government, and the necessity of having two representatives whose acts have to be explained and in certain cases apologized for is not conductive to respect for our government.

In future our diplomatic relations with Mexico should be the same as those we have with other countries. Our people do not take kindly to the secret service system which has resulted so disastrously in European diplomacy, and if it is necessary for us to have representatives with the opposing forces, they should at least be openly accredited and their duties so clearly defined that our state department will not have to spend its time in apologizing for what they have done.

COMING OF THE SPANIARDS.

Nearly four hundred years have elapsed since the Spaniards under Hernando Cortez first reached the coast of Mexico and began the conquest which brought so much evil with the civilization of Europe to the Aztecs.

Burning his ships in order to show to his soldiers that they must conquer or perish, Cortez laid the foundations of the present city of Vera Cruz and then started toward the capital. He had only a handful of Spaniards, although disaffected natives to the number of 6,000 had joined his standard out of hatred for the harsh rule of Moctezuma.

The very boldness of the campaign was all that saved Cortez and his followers from utter annihilation. Taking advantage of the Mexican belief that he was a god, he worked upon the superstitions of Moctezuma and his subjects until he had gained the ascendancy, and when the news finally came from the coast that the Spaniards were only human and therefore vulnerable, he seized the opportunity to capture Moctezuma and in his name govern the empire.

The downfall of the Mexican people and the rule of the Spaniards began, to give way to the independence of Mexico only after three hundred years had passed.

Many people have joined in the expression that the Spaniards "destroyed a civilization superior to their own," but much must be conceded to the romantic nature of the writers of that day, and there is little foundation for the belief that the Aztecs possessed many of the arts of civilization.

The great buildings that were found by the Spaniards were surpassed by many ancient peoples, from the Babylonians down to the comparatively modern time of the Romans. The gold and silver work which has survived in Mexico was one of the other arts practiced by the Aztecs. They wove fine fabrics of wool, but so did the Hebrews in their forty years' pilgrimage.

Judge from the standpoint of modern civilization the ancient Aztecs had much to learn. Their nobles lived in massive stone palaces, while the laboring classes lived in mere huts that are represented today by the "jacal" of palm fiber and plantain leaves. The finest wear of the wealthy classes did not compare with the clothing which is now available for the commonest workingman. The feather work which was their highest form of textile art was merely a barbaric achievement that has been outdone by the South Sea islanders.

All that Mexico knows of science and learning was taught by the Spanish, and her later development came from the schools and colleges founded by the old Spanish priests and friars.

A warlike nation, the Aztecs were innately cruel, and their mildest punishments would now be considered barbarous. A thief was punished by having the offending hand cut off at the wrist, while a second offense was punishable by death. Yet thieves were common enough in the olden days, if one is to believe the ancient chronicles.

The sacrifices of human beings to the war god were so common that they excited no comment among the natives, and a certain percentage of all war captives was always sacrificed to the idol upon the completion of a campaign.

The peonage of modern times is but a survival of the slavery of the days of Moctezuma, when all surviving prisoners of war became slaves, no matter what their previous rank, and the gentlest maidens were forced to carry burdens when their fathers were conquered in fight.

Mexico suffered severely at the hands of the Spaniards, it is true, but no worse than she suffered at the hands of her own rulers before the Europeans came. And she learned and gained much through her suffering.

Kitchener is going on a mission to the Near East. Wonder if he is going to try a little persuasion with Greece to get her to enter the war? He can hardly be going to hobnob with Turkey.

At last the Italians in New York are getting theirs in the way of bombs. The third attempt has been made to dynamite the Italian consulate, but it is not known who is the guilty party. Of course there is no likelihood that it can be traced to the Teutons.

After three days fighting, the Bulgarians captured Nish with 350 Serbians and two cannon. If that many Serbians could hold off an enemy with the aid of only two cannon for three days, what could they do with an army well outfitted?

Submarines have again passed the straits of Gibraltar, which reminds one that it should not be a difficult feat. But the trouble with the Teutons is that they have been unable to pass through the straits on the surface.

WORK WEARS ON THE KIDNEYS.

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Laredo.

Many Laredo people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk—riding on jolting wagons or cars—doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys and bad backs. Their effective work in Laredo is convincing proof of merit.

Juan S. Cortez, barber, 1702 Hidalgo St., Laredo, says: "After being on my feet a good deal, my back gets sore and lame and makes me miserable and unable to do my work with pleasure. My kidneys also become irregular in action and the kidney secretions pass too often. Doan's Kidney Pills never fail to benefit me quickly, curing me of the backache and regulating the passages of the kidney secretions."

AN ORDINANCE.

REGULATING AUTOMOBILES OPERATED ON THE STREETS AND AVENUES FOR HIRE, FIXING THE LICENSE FEE THAT EACH SHALL PAY; DEFINING THE JITNEY SERVICE, FIXING ITS ROUTE, AND FIXING THE FARE THAT JITNEYS AND OTHER AUTOMOBILES FOR HIRE MAY CHARGE FOR CARRYING PASSENGERS—REQUIRING BONDS FOR ALL AUTOMOBILES OPERATED FOR HIRE; PROHIBITING ANY ONE UNDER 18 YEARS OF AGE FROM OPERATING AUTOMOBILES AND REQUIRING EVERY PERSON OPERATING AN AUTOMOBILE TO HOLD A CERTIFICATE OF QUALIFICATION—DESIGNATING PLACES FOR AUTOMOBILES OPERATED FOR HIRE TO STAND; FIXING RULES AND REGULATIONS AND PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR VIOLATING ORDINANCE.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF LAREDO:

Section One: DEFINITIONS: Unless otherwise indicated by the context the following terms as used in this ordinance shall be held to have the meaning as herein defined, to-wit: The word "street" shall include all streets, avenues, and other public places in the City of Laredo. The word "person" shall include person, persons, firm or corporation and their agents, servants or employes, engaged in the conduct of any such business, or operations as herein defined or any part thereof. Words in singular number shall include the plural, and pronouns in the masculine gender shall include the corresponding word in the feminine or neuter. The words "automobile for hire" or "automobile" shall include every automobile, taxicab, omnibus or other similar motor driven vehicle which is used or operated in the business or practice of carrying passengers for hire on the streets and avenues of said city; and shall include every automobile employed in any business or practice of using said streets or avenues for the purpose of carrying passengers for hire from within said city to any point or points outside of said city:

Section Two: It shall be unlawful for any person to use or operate any automobile for hire on any street or avenue within the incorporated limits of said city, without first filing a good and sufficient bond with the City Secretary of said city, in the sum of $2,500.00 approved by the Mayor of said City, and payable to that officer and his successors in office for the purpose, use and benefit hereinafter provided, and in addition thereto procure a written license for such automobile as herein required, by the person owing or controlling the same.

Section Three: For each automobile so owned, controlled or operated in carrying passengers for hire, there shall be paid to the city, an annual license fee as follows: Having a capacity not exceeding five passengers $50.00; more than five and not exceeding seven $70.00; more than seven and not exceeding ten $100.00 and on all cars having a carrying capacity of more than ten passengers $125.00 which shall be deposited and kept in the street and bridge fund of said city, and all cost of traffic supervision and other expenses incident to said regulation, license and inspection shall be paid by the city out of the general fund; PROVIDED, HOWEVER, that in case any person having any automobile not employed in such business at the beginning of any fiscal year, shall during such year desire license for such automobile, then such license shall issue for the remaining part of such fiscal year and the license fee therefor shall be prorated according to time; but such payment shall not in any such case be less than one-half the license fee for the full year, and provided further that all such license for the current fiscal year shall be so prorated.

Section Four: The City Tax Collector shall deliver to the person making such payment a written license, issued to the person owing such automobile, which license shall authorize such person to use and operate the same as an automobile for hire, subject to the provisions of this ordinance, for and during the period of the city fiscal year current on the date of such license; provided that the person owing such automobile shall at the time of paying said license fee furnish evidence to the City Tax Collector that he has filed with the City Secretary the approved bond, required in Section Three of this ordinance.

Section Five. Upon compliance with sections, two, three and four of this ordinance by the owner of the automobile desiring to operate the same for hire, the City Automobile Commissioner shall deliver to such person a metal tag with the words thereon "FOR HIRE" which the owner of such automobile shall at all times keep displayed thereon in a conspicuous place.

Section Six: No person shall conduct such business, or keep, use or operate any automobile for hire, on any street or avenue in said city otherwise than in conformity with the following rules:

1.—Such automobile for hire shall have conspicuously posted therein a copy of Sections, Two, Three, Four, Five and Six of this ordinance, together with the current license for operating the same.

2.—Such automobile shall be operated at all times in compliance with the requirements of the ordinaces of this city, and in particular the ordinances regulating traffic and the use of the streets.

3.—Any person in charge of any automobile for hire in this city not otherwise employed shall furnish such transportation between any points in this city at the rates herein fixed to any person or persons demanding such services.

4.—Not more than one passenger, or passenger with child in arms under the age of ten years, shall be permitted to occupy the front seat of any automobile or any part of such automobile in front of said seat.

5.—No person shall permit any passenger to be or stand upon any running board, fender, hood or door of any such automobile, while in motion; and no passenger shall ride sitting or standing on any such part of such automobile.

6.—Within the period following one-half hour after sunset and extetnding to one-half hour before sunrise the interior of such automobile while being operated on any streets or avenues shall be illuminated by a good light, or lights, placed sufficiently high to light effectively the full length and width of the seats contained in such vehicle, and such light or lights to be of not less than six candle power.

7.—No person shall operate any such automobile unless he be more than eighteen years of age and hold a valid chaffeur's license regularly issued by authority of the city.

8.—The person in charge of such automobile shall maintain good order therein and shall not knowingly permit, but forbid and caution against, the use of any loud, abusive, threatening or obscene language, or any violent, unlawful or indecent conduct by any passenger or any other person in such vehicle.

9.—No such automobile shall be operated on any streets or avenue whether with or without passengers, carrying any sign exposed thereon other than the number and metal tag hereby required stating that the same is for "hire" or a "service car," or other similar legend, and no person shall on any street or avenue solicit by word or signal any other person or persons to employ or become passengers on any such automobile; and no such automobile shall pass to and fro on the streets seeking employment.

10.—All automobiles for hire, when engaged by any passenger may stop on any street or avenue of the city as long as may be necessary to take on, accomodate or discharge passengers who have engaged the same, but no longer and such stops shall not in any case exceed the time allowed at such places for vehicles in general, and all such automobiles whether engaged or not, shall stop and stand in the same manner as other vehicles when so required by any ordinance, or in any case when so required by voice or signal of any police officer of the city.

11.—No person shall permit any such automobile unnecessarily to increase, delay, or impede the traffic of the streets and avenues of said city, and no automobile for hire, while not engaged, shall loiter or remain standing in any street or avenue, other than at the following public places which are hereby declared to be authorized stands for automobiles for hire, to-wit; North side of Martin Plaza, West side City Hall, close to curbing thereof, South side Jarvis Plaza, near the curbing thereof, and on the West side of the Independence Plaza.

The chief of police, by and with the advice and consent of some authorized agent of each railroad company having in this city a station or stations for passengers or freight shall from time to time by written order approved by the signature of such railroad agent, designate and assign at such station a stand or stands where hacks, carts, drays and wagons, omnibusses, automobiles for hire and other vehicles shall receive and discharge their freight or passengers and also a place or places where they or any of them shall stand while waiting for freight or passengers.

Section 7.—It shall be unlawful for any person owning, controlling or operating any automobile for hire, to charge, demand or receive as compensation for such service any fare or payment in excess of the following rates: For five (5) passenger car, not exceeding four passengers, three dollars ($3.00) per hour, for seven (7) passenger car, not exceeding five passengers, three and one-half dollars, $3.50) per hour; same six passengers four dollars ($4.00) per hour.

And when hired for the trip from any point within the city to any point within the city for one or two passengers one dollar ($1.00) for first mile and fifty cents (50c.) for each additional mile, and if more than two passengers then twenty-five cents (25) additional per mile may be charged for each additional passenger, and when children accompany adult passengers no charge shall be made for children under six years of age, and only one-half of the fares above specified shall be charged for children over six and under twelve years of age; and no charge shall be made for carrying the hand baggage of any passenger. Any passenger or passengers, refusing to pay the fares, lawfully demanded, not exceeding the fares fixed by this ordinance being carried to their destination, if demanded without delay by the person in charge of such vehicle, shall be deemed guilty of disorderly conduct and shall be punished as in this ordinance provided.

Section Eight. All such licenses shall be issued subject to revocation for cause; and whenever any licensee shall willfully or persistently and negligently violate, or permit to be violated by any other person any of the provisions of this ordinance, the judge of the corporation court of said city shall be authorized to order said licensee, after three days written notice, to appear before him and show cause why such license should not be revoked, and said judge shall at the time fixed by said notice investigate and hear evidence concerning such violation, and if it appears that such violation or violations have occurred, shall have power to declare such license revoked, and terminated, and after such revocation the licensee shall not again under said revoked license be authorized and permitted to operate as an automobile for hire the vehicle described in such license. And the badge and license of all chauffeurs of automobiles for hire shall also be revocable as provided by ordinance.

Section Nine. Any person or passenger violating or failing or refusing to comply with any provisions of this ordinance, shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five dollars, ($5.00), nor more than two hundred dollars ($200.00); and each day during which such violation, failure or refusal shall continue shall constitute a separate and distinct offense.

Section 10. The owner of any automobile who has complied with the provisions of Sections 2, 3, and 4 of this ordinance desiring to engage in the Jitney service in said city, as hereinafter defined may do so, by complying with the following rules:

First. He shall make an application in writing to the Mayor, stating therein his name, residence, the number and make of his automobile, the seating capacity thereof, the date and number of his license.

Second. He shall run the route and on the schedule designated in his permit to run a Jitney.

Third. He shall have a sign on the wind shield of his automobile in these words "Jitney 5" in letters not less than four inches long.

Fourth. He may charge and collect from each passenger carried in his automobile on his route a fare not exceeding five cents.

Fifth. He shall not leave his route to get passengers or carry a passenger to any point off of his regular route.

Section 11. Every person engaged in the Jitney service in this city, shall comply with this ordinance so far as the same is applicable to the Jitney service, and with these rules and regulations and rules 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 of Section Six of this ordinance.

Section 12. The Jitney service is defined to be the operation of an automobile or automobiles on a designated route in said city upon a schedule for carrying passengers thereon at a fare of five cents as provided by ordinance and the rules and regulations herein.

Section 13. Any person engaged in operating a Jitney service in this city, who shall violate this ordinance or any of the rules and regulations hereinbefore mentioned in this ordinance shall be fined as provided in Section Nine of this ordinance, and may have his license revoked as provided in Section Eight of this ordinance.

Section 14. The route to be run by the Jitney service cars in the city of Laredo, is hereby established as follows; Starting at the intersection of Meadow and Market Streets; Thence West along Market Street to Iturbide Street; Thence along Iturbide Street West to Salinas Avenue; Thence along Salinas Avenue North to Matamoros Street; Thence along Matamoros Street West to I. & G. N. Depot, and from the intersection of Matamoros Street and Santa Maria Avenue, North along Santa Maria Avenue to the city limits.

Section 15. The bond provided for in Section 2 of this ordinance shall inure to the benefit of any person who may be injured, or otherwise sustain damage or loss through the negligence of the owner or operator of any such automobile for hire, whether engaged in the Jitney service or otherwise.

Section 16. No person under the age of 18 years shall operate an automobile in the City of Laredo, and no person shall operate an automobile in said City after the first day of January, 1916, who has not secured a certificate showing his qualification to do so, issued by authority of said City.

Section 17. Every person to whom a certificate of qualification to operate an automobile on the streets and avenues of said city is issued, shall pay a fee of $1.50 for the same.

Section 18. Every person who operates an automobile on the Streets and Avenues of the City of Laredo, shall on approaching a street corner or passing any vehicle going in the same direction sound his horn.

Section 19. Every person who shall operate an automobile on the Streets and Avenues in the City of Laredo, shall on approaching a street corner, if he intends to turn at such corner, throw out his hand indicating the direction he intends to go.

Section 20. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be fined as provided by Section Nine of this ordinance.

Section 21. If any section, sub-section, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held to be unconstitutional or invalid by the Courts, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance, and the City Council hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance, and each section, sub-section, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that one or more of the other sections, sub-sections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional and invalid.

Section 22. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with the terms of this ordinance are hereby expressly repealed, but all ordinances and parts of ordinances regulating traffic and public vehicles and kindred subjects not in conflict herewith are retained in full force and effect, and shall be regarded as cumulative of this ordinance.

Section 23. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after the first day of January, A. D. 1916.

And whereas, the Charter of said City requires all ordinances imposing a penalty for the violation thereof to be published at least ten times in some newspaper published in said city.

And whereas, a large number of people are affected by the several provisions of this ordinance which becomes in full force and effect on January 1st, 1916; Therefore an imperative public necessity exists for the suspension of that provision of the City Charter which provides that all ordinances shall be read at three regular meetings before final passage, be suspended and the same is hereby in all things suspended, and this ordinance is hereby now placed upon its first, second and third reading and final passage, and it is so ordained by this Council.

Passed the 2nd day of Nov., 1915.
Approved the 3rd day of Nov., 1915.
ROBT. McCOMB,
Mayor.

VACATION WEEK FOR THE BAND.

Members of Ninth Infantry Band Have "Week Off" and Will Disperse and Enjoy Vacation Various Ways.

As per orders of the commanding officer, this is what can be properly termed "vacation week" for the Ninth Infantry Band and the members of that organization this week are all I. W. W's. (not Industrial Workers of the World) but "I Won't Work" men.

They have a whole week in which to devote their time to anything they may choose, so the most of the band members yesterday slicked and oiled their fire-arms and this morning hiked for the ranges to make target practice on the fleet-footed deer that will disappear when the soldier boys with their guns appear.

There will be no band concerts by the Ninth Infantry Band at Fort McIntosh this week in consequence of the vacation, and hardly any of the band boys will be in the city until next Sunday.

SOLDIER ARRESTED AT WEBB.

Suspected of Being a Deserter and Later That He Had Appropriated a Horse Without Permission.

Private Frank Lebay of the Ninth Infantry, who left camp here on Saturday morning and wended his way up the I. & G. N. road as far as Green station, where he is alleged to have taken a horse and saddle, mounted the animal and rode away on it, was stopped at Webb station yesterday and detained until officers at Laredo could be notified. Lebay having no leave of absence to show from his company commander, he was sent to Laredo and is now in jail here.

While he was arrested on suspicion of being a deserter and such was no doubt his intention, nevertheless he was arrested by the countp officers on a charge of theft of a horse and saddle, and at a preliminary trial to be given him tomorrow he will be offered an opportunity to prove otherwise if he can.

A Wonderful Antiseptic.

Germs and infection aggravate ailments and retard healing. Stop that infection at once. Kill the germs and get rid of the poisons. For this purpose a single application of Sloan's Liniment not only kills the pain but destroys the germs. This neutralizes infection and gives nature assistance by overcoming congestion and gives a chance for the free and normal flow of the blood. Sloan's Liniment is an emergency doctor and should be kept constantly on hand. 25c., 50c. The $1.00 size contains six times as much as the 25c.

Notice to Hunters.

The public is hereby notified that no hunting will be allowed in any of our pastures and you need not ask for permits for they will be refused. Trespassers will be prosecuted in accordance with law.

SEVERAL STATE RANGERS HERE.

Representatives of Two Companies Here Either in Attendance at Federal Court or Other Business.

Whether or not there is any significance attached to the presence of several state rangers in Laredo at this time when federal court is in session, other than the fact that they are serving as court officers or witnesses, can not be stated at this time.

Captain Tom Ross of the Rangers is serving in the court as interpreter, while Sergeant Grimes of Captain Sanders company, and one or two other members of that company are "attending" court, but in what capacity can only be conjectured. Sergeant Grimes is in charge of the state rangers stationed at Alice, while Captain Ross is the commander of another company.

Notice to Hunters.

Hunters will take notice that we positively prohibit hunting in the Espejo pasture and persons found violating this notice will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

SOME REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

Two Deeds Filed With County Clerk on Saturday Show Conveyances of Property in City and County.

Transactions in real estate are rather slow at this time and very few deeds have been filed for record with the county clerk the past two weeks. This is the dull season in the realty market, but things will begin to pick up after the beginning of the new year and then transactions galore will be recorded. The deeds filed since last report are the following:

Secundino Cantu and Maria P. de Cantu to Juliana M. Vda. de Perez, lot No. 7, in block No. 26, E. D. Consideration, $180.

Santana Rangel to Feliciano Herera, all right, title and interest in and to Porcion No. 21, Webb county. Consideration, $13 and other good and valuable consideration.

SESSION FEDERAL COURT CONVENED THIS MORNING

GRAND AND PETIT JURORS FOR TERM WERE EMPANELLED.

Full Attendance of Court Officials and Visiting Attorneys and Court Gets Down to Work at Once.

The November term of the United States court for the Southern District of Texas in Webb county, was convened at the federal building in Laredo this morning by U. S. District Judge Waller T. Burns. A full attendance of the various courts officers was in attendance, as follows: Judge Waller T. Burns, U. S. District Attorney John A. Green, Assistant U. S. District Attorney E. P. Phelps, Stenographer Miss Georgia Smith of attorney's office; Deputy District Clerk J. L. Sexton, United States Marshal J. A. Herring, Deputy U. S. Marshal Ben Reed, Deputy U. S. Marshal Allen Walker, Interpreter Capt. Tom Ross, Deputy District Clerk Randolph Robertson and Court Bailiff Frank Tiernan.

After his usual charge the following grand jury was empanelled for the term and began their work with Sam Mackin as foreman: Sam Mackin, G. P. Farias, P. M. Sauvignet, E. del Barrio, G. W. Derby, Laredo; F. C. Childs, P. P. McWhirter, E. N. McCoy, J. B. Henderson, J. Wahrenberger, B. Wildenthal, Henry Neal, V. L. Shilling, Cotulla; W. Hedwig, Encinal; George Newmaan, Jr., Dilley; W. P. Franklin, Arch Crain, Tilden; C. D. LeRosen, Espejo; Art Beal, Millett; Charles Uhlman, Fowlerton; L. D. Massey, Loma Vista; J. N. Garrett, Torrecilas; Neville Hinnant, Guerra.

The following petit jurors were also sworn in for the term: W. F. Schuller, A. S. Kuykendall, M. T. Cogley, George Reuthinger, L. Villegas, Frank Masterson, James Carr, Hugh Fitzpatrick, H. L. Myers, John Battle, J. P. Withers, John A. Applewhite, J. I. Kuykendall, C. A. Swedberg, V. L. Puig, Brooks Patton, J. A. Kuykendall, R. K. Mims, W. J. Coleman, J. R. Jennings and J. R. Murphy.

The civil docket was taken up and a number of cases were disposed of by judgments or otherwise.

Anton Goetz, a native of Austria, was granted final naturalization papers and took the oath of allegiance.

On account of certain health conditions prevailing here at the time that the last term of the court was to have been held, Judge Burns postponed that session until this time, consequently there was an accumulation of deferred business when court met today. Most of this is of a civil nature However, there are several cases on the docket wherein the parties arrested are charged with violation of the United States neutrality laws, most prominent of which is perhaps that against Manuel Ieaza, the Villa consul here, who is charged with recruiting men for service in a foreign army, and who has been out on bail since his arrest on this charge several months ago.

New Methodist Pastor.

Rev. Walter L. Barr, A. M., began his pastorate at the Methodist Church yesterday morning under auspicious conditions. The congregation was larger than it has been for a long time, and every one seemed delighted with the new minister. Doctor Barr is a young man, in his thirty-fifth year of life, and his eleventh year as pastor. He comes highly recommended by both the authorities of the church, and his old pastoral charge. Rev. S. B. Johnston, the presiding elder, in speaking of him said: "He is one of the sure-enough preachers of Southern Methodism." The Methodist Church here has given him a hearty welcome, in which The Times earnestly joins.

REPORTS CROPS LOOK FINE.

Everything is in Excellent Condition in the Country Near the Coal Mines and Prospects Promising.

Edward O. Staben, manager of the Davis farm near Joyce, arrived in Laredo yesterday afternoon on a visit to his wife and parents and to transact some business in the city.

Mr. Staben reports crop conditions in his section of the county as being in most excellent shape and says the indications are that heavy yields of onions will be made the coming season. The recent rains in the coal mines region of the county have put the land in fine conditions and everything at this time is most propitious for bumper crops of onions in the early summer.

CONCERT LARGELY ATTENDED.

Martin Plaza Was Thronged With People Last Night to Enjoy Music Rendered by La Banda Social.

Martin Plaza was again thronged with people last night, the ommasion being the regular Sunday night band concert by La Banda Social, and the event was much enjoyed by all, the selections constituting the program comprising many of the popular airs of the day.

Pretty girls galore, as well as girls who were the opposite of beauty, were out in force last night and the long double-lines of promenaders were in the proper spirit to enjoy the evening. Besides the congestion on the walks of the plaza there were numerous autos parked on all sides.

Notice to Hunters.

THIS IS MY 57th BIRTHDAY

U. S. SENATOOR L. Y. SHERMAN.

U. S. Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois, who is boomed for the Republican nomination for the presidency, is 57 years old today. He looks like Lincoln, and comes from the Great Emancipator's bailiwick. He is reputed to have 58 delegates to the next Republican national convention in the hollow of his hand, and as things go nowadays in politics this asset makes a man of presidential size. Senator Sherman was born in Miami County, Ohio, on Nov. 8, 1858, and was taken by his parents to their new home in Illinois the following year. In his youth he worked on the farm, and spent his spare hours reading. With money earned on the threshing machines he attended McKendree College, where he gained a law degree. He hung out his law shingle at Macomb, Ill., in 1882, and a few years later was made city attorney. Then he was elected county judge. His political career began in 1897, when he was elected to the legislature. He rose to be speaker of the House, and in 1904 was elected Lieutenant Governor. He experienced one defeat, when he was candidate for mayor of Springfield, Ill., on a law enforcement platform following the Springfield riots of August, 1908. He was then appointed president of the Board of Administration of the State of Illinois, having control of seventeen state charities, and in 1913 was elected to the United States Senate, to succeed William Lorimer. He was re-elected last fall for another six year term. Senator Sherman was married twice, and is now a widower with one child.

LOUISIANA SEEKS TO OUST SUGAR TRUST.

New Orleans, Nov. 8.—The postponed trial of the suit brought by the State of Louisiana against the American Sugar Refining Company, seeking to oust the so-called "sugar trust" from doing business in this state, is set for today. The case will be bitterly fought, and a long trial is expected.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OPENS CONVENTION.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—The 35th anual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened here today, with President Samuel Gompers in the chair. All sections of the country are represented, and all the organized trades have sent their duly elected representatives. Canada is also represented, and the English unions have sent two delegates.

Labor legislation that will be presented to the new Congress next month will be discussed by leaders of the Federation. The main issues to be fought for are industrial education, vocational training and the conservation of human life.

The labor troubles brought on or attempted by the propaganda of foreign agents in the United States will be threshed out, it is expected by many delegates, and it is hoped that President Gompers will expose the inside story of these plots. The attempt to inveigle American labor leaders into the various movements to interfere with the manufacture and shipment of ammunition and arms was thoroughly probed, and the delegates are hoping for full expose.

One of the first issues to come before the convention is the protest against the seating of delegates from religious bodies. This protest was begun by the Milwaukee Building Trades Council, not in opposition to religion, but on the ground that "denominational churches have not lived up to trade union principles and have not and cannot cope with the causes that have and are at work to impocerish the working people."

It is pointed out in the protest against the religious delegates that the fundamental principle of the Federation is to organize and unite the workers irrespective of their creed, color, nationality or politics, and points out that the introduction of religious questions must lead to disruption.

The Milwaukee Building Trades Council declares that the Sacred Heart Sanitarium, and the Knights of Columbus Club house are being erected in that city under non-union conditions, and that the labor men could not induce the religious bodies to have the building erected by union labor. The supposed co-operation between churches and unionism, to bring about a more just civilization, is "nothing but hypocrisy," says the Milwaukee Council.

PARTY BROUGHT HOME BUCKS.

Young Men Who Went to Martin Ranch Several Days Ago in Quest of Venison Had Only Fair Luck.

The party of about ten Laredo young men who left here early last week for the Martin ranch to spend several days in quest of the festive venison, returned here Saturday night, bringing back with them three large bucks.

They state that deer have not yet began to gambol the undulating prairies in that section, so they will later return to pursue their quest of them.

ILLINOIS SHIPPERS FIGHT FREIGHT RAISE

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Hearings on the 5 percent freight advance asked by the railroads operating in this state will begin here tomorrow before the Public Utilities Commission. The opponents of the increase are represented by the Chicago Association of Commerce, which will fight the rate increase on the ground that the Illinois rates are already higher than the interstate rates which the Interstate Commerce Commission recently refused to advance five percent.

NATIONAL GUARD OPPOSES NEW ARMY SCHEME.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—When the National Guard Association of the United States meets here tomorrow, it is believed a campaign of opposition to the Wilson-Garrison plan for a civilian army of 400,000 men will be inaugurated. The National Guard will resent and fight any attempt to put them in the "second line" in case of war. It is said that adjutant generals of various states have agreed to oppose any movement that would belittle the National Guard or lead to cutting off federal aid for its support.

BASEBALL STARS AS RIFLEMEN.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 8.—Christy Matthewson, Harry Davis, "Doc" Crandall and "Chief" Bender will open here today their rifle tour of the country. Their trip wil take them 3,300 miles, and they will show their marksmanship in many big cities. The opening shoot takes place at the West End Gun Club today and the final shoot will be staged at the Palefice Shooting Club in Boston, on Nov. 27. They will compete with teams of amateurs in each city.

"Chief" Bender, the famous Indian pitcher, has long been recognized as one of the best shots in the East. His team-mates are not far behind him. The trip of the baseball stars is the first of the kind ever arranged.

YOUNGEST BRITISH HERO IS FROM MONTREAL.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—The youngest medal hero of the British Empire is Bugler Anthony Ginlay, of Montreal, who is only 15 years old. He secured the coveted Distinguished Conduct Medal in France for carrying dispatches through excessive fire. The young man has been enjoying a furlough in Scotland with friends, and is the proudest boy in Europe. Ginlay's parents emigrated to Montreal from Ireland. He was thrown on his own resources at the age of 14, and the big European War was then breaking out. His pluck in seeking to enlist won him a commission as a bugler, and the lad went to the front with the first expeditionary forces.

VANITY KEEPS ME YOUNG, SAYS CHOYNSKI.

Joe Choynski, who is celebrating his 47th birthday anniversary today, is also celebrating a recent ring victory. He has put the sleep-inducer over on a strong battler half his age. His come-back after years of retirement has interested the old followers of the fight game, who recount the battles that Choynski put up in his tender youth' against the toughest in the land. And Joe says it is all a matter of vanity. Not to lose the force of his argument, we must quote him: "Being vain of my prowess has kept me young. When one loses vanity, he deteriorates". His theory, though old as the hills, has other exponents in the form of Bat Nelson, Ad Wolgast and lanky Bob Fitzsimmons. But Joe is Frank enough to admit his dependence on the vanity that lurks within him. And he was lucky enough to get away with the telling punch after a dozen years of retirement.

LEGITIMIZING CARRANZA.

In a pamphlet written by Heriberto Barron, who subscribes himself "friend and follower of Mr. Carranza and a member of the Constitutionalist party," an attempt is made to prove the "legitimacy of the government of Mr. Venustiano Carranza in Mexico."

It is evident that the document was first written in Spanish and then translated into English (?), for there are many little touches about the article which will be difficult for the average American to understand.

After stating—from the Carranza point of view—the incidents which led up to the assassination of Madero and Suarez, the writer goes on to show how the "government" of Venustiano Carranza came into being. Carranza was then governor of the state of Coahuila, "elected by the people," says Mr. Barron, although there is much doubt about that in the minds of those who know of his election.

Carranza refused to accept the "usurpation" of Huerta, and called a convention which resolved itself into the "constitutionalist army," of which Carranza became the "first chief," therefore avoiding the pitfall of becoming provisional president and being also accused of usurpation.

This new "government" thus became, according to Barron, the legal government of Mexico, although it was constituted in a manner contrary to the constitution of Mexico, and could have no legal existence in the eyes of the world.

Mr. Barron claims that our government should have recognized the Carranza "government" from its inception, despite the fact that it was constituted solely by the people who formed it, without warrant of law other than contained in any other revolutionary body.

It is confessed in the Barron pamphlet that Carranza was the only "legally elected" governor of a state of Mexico who refused to accept the provisional government of Victoriano Huerta, and that he was the only "legally elected" official of the entire republic who was active in the formation of the "constitutionalist government." In other words, Carranza and his followers were guilty of an usurpation equally as great as that of Huerta, and the latter had the backing of the greater part of the other "legally elected" officials of the entire republic.

There can be no doubt that the selection of Huerta as provisional president was illegal. Therefore, there can be no doubt that the selection of Carranza as chief of the "constitutionalist government" was also illegal. As a choice between the two Huerta was supported by a majority of the officials of the republic, while Carranza was supported by the people who had no official standing and no claim to having been "legally elected."

Later on, says Barron, the convention was dominated by Francisco Villa, and was "converted into a sedition to depose, without any reason, the legitimate person in charge of the executive power of the republic."

The power which Carranza wielded was given to him by the convention of which he was only a part, even although the originator of the plan. A majority of the convention deposed Carranza from his position of chief executive, and he refused to accept the will of the majority. So much for the "legitimacy" of Carranza's power.

The old story of the Madero government having been unable to establish the reforms contemplated because "the reactionary element of the overthrown regime knew how to ensnare the government until it could consummate the violent usurpation which carried Huerta to its head" (sic) is retold by Barron, but without explaining how an insignificant minority could control Madero in the face of the revolutionary majority.

The final argument is that Carranza, "in compliance with the constitution, and in his constitutional character, assumed the succession of Madero!" That is, the governor of Coahuila is the sole successor to a dead president! This is an example of the attempt to legitimize Carranza.

THE NOTE TO GREAT BRITAIN.

The final word may be said to have been spoken in the matter of interference with American commerce rights in the note just forwarded to Great Britain, and upon the answer of that country depends the continuance of the friendly relations which have existed for so many years.

Mr. Wilson plainly states that our government "cannot submit to the curtailment of its neutral rights," and that it cannot "with complacence suffer further subordination of its rights and interests."

The note reviews the past history of American commerce and calls the attention of Great Britain to the insistence of our government "that the relations between it and His Majesty's government be governed, not by a policy of expediency, but by those established rules of international conduct to which Great Britain in the past has held the United States to account when the latter nation was a belligerent engaged in a struggle for National existence."

It further declares that the United States unhesitatingly assumes the task of championing the integrity of neutral rights, and proclaims that the American government will devote its energies to the task, always exercising an impartial attitude.

The note claims that it has been conclusively shown that the methods sought to be employed by Great Britain to obtain and use evidence of enemy destination of cargoes bound for neutral ports and to impose a contraband character upon such cargoes are entirely without justification.

This is one of the strongest claims that Great Britain has urged to support her alleged right to seize cargoes shipped from the United tates, and it is now claimed to be without justification.

The statement that large cargoes of meats shipped to Norway, for instance, were entirely too large to be consumed by the Norwegians and that therefore they must be intended for reshipment and sale to Germany was the basis for the seizure of the Chicago packers' shipments.

The statement that the methods employed by Great Britain are "admittedly retaliatory and therefore illegal," is the basis of the American claim that its neutral rights have been interfered with in an unjustifiable manner.

The note states that "It is of the highest importance to neutrals not only of the present day, but of the future, that the principles of international right be maintained unimpaired."

And this is the same ground upon which our protest to Germany against the submarine warfare was based. Not because we had any interest in the question whether Germany inflicted damage upon her enemy or not, but on the ground that we as neutrals were entitled to free passage over the sea on our own business without interference by other nations.

The assertion is made that we have a neutral right to sell our goods to neutral nations and to ship them without interference so long as we do not violate international law by shipping contraband.

What the consignees do with our goods after receiving them is none of our business. And our sales to neutral nations are none of Great Britain's business. That is the basis of the contention of the note.

Great Britain's promise to "exercise their belligerent right with every possible consideration for the interests of neutrals" has not been carried out in a manner to show consideration for American rights, and therefore the blockade, which the note stigmatizes as "ineffective, illegal and indefensible," is not justified by its results.

The note is such as might have been expected after the high tone of the previous notes to Germany, and it demonstrates a neutrality that should be copied by all other nations. It demands only the rights of Americans, without infringing upon the rights of any other nation.

President Wilson justifies his demand for increase of the army by some verses of Ezekiel's, in which the watchman is commanded to blow the trumpet when he sees the sword approaching. It is evident that Mr. Bryan is not the only one who can quote scripture to his purpose.

The department of agriculture says this year's corn crop is the greatest ever grown. We are waiting for George Bailey to tell us what will be done with a goodly share of that crop—in North Carolina, at least.

The German authorities in Belgium are much worried over the report that Brand Whitlock is leaving because they do not like him. Not that it is not true, but they do so hate to have it get out.

The news has just reached San Francisco that the Carrancistas looted Manzanillo. But then none of the loot is ever sold that far away, so the people at the Golden Gate may be excused for not learning of it before.

"FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING."

Times Office Kindly Remembered By Some Good Ladies, Who Sent Cluster Bouquet of Various Hued Roses

Some good and appreciative ladies of Laredo whom the Times recently assisted in various ways in promoting a laudable undertaking, yesterday sent to our sanctum a box containing a cluster of many hued, sweet and fragrant roses, and as the writer gazed on the bouquet there was recalled vague recollections of a poem, entitled, "Give Them the Flowers Now," the first verse of which reads:

"Closed eyes can't see the white roses,
Cold hands can't hold them, you know;
Breath that is stilled can not gather
The odors that sweet from them blow
Death with a peace beyond dreaming,
Its children of earth doth endow.
Life is the time we can help them,
So give them the flowers now."

Of course this poem was not written especially for or dedicated to newspapermen, but when sweet and delicate flowers, with their dainty aroma, adorn the desk and the essence pervades the office atmosphere, superlative thoughts that one's effort has been appreciated are realized. Thus we are given flowers while we live—let others lay them on the little mound that shall mark the last resting place when the eyes are closed in eternal slumber. Thanks for the roses.

MAX DAVIS PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGES AGAINST HIM

THIS IS NEGRO WHO ATTEMPTED TO POISON TWO SOLDIERS.

Jesus Galindo, Who Also Had Serious Charge Against Him, After Indictment, Entered Plea of Guilty.

The grand jury in the federal court this morning brought in three bills of indictment, one against Max Davis, a negro, charged with attempted murder by poisoning a soldier of the United States army on the military reservation, and the other two indictments being against Jesus Galindo, charged with receiving, concealing and having in his possession property of the United States.

The case against Max Davis was called and the defendant was arraigned for trial, he pleading guilty to the three counts in the indictment against him. Sentence will be passed later. Davis is the negro who had formerly been in the employ of Captain Sirmeyer and family as cook and who had some trouble with a couple of soldiers on the military reservation. Davis put strychnine in a bottle of beer on July 6 last and sent it by a small boy to where two soldiers were lounging in the shade. One of the soldiers, Private Peter Counssiulis partook of the beverage and warned the other comrade in time. Counsoulis was taken violently ill and himself went to the post hospital and a stomach pump saved his life. Davis later admitted attempting to poison the soldiers and was arrested and jailed.

Jesus Galindo, charged with receiving, concealing and having in his possession stolen property of the United States, plead guilty to one charge this morning and the other was dismissed at the request of the United States district attorney. Galindo is alleged to have purchased from soldiers certain goods which had been stolen from the commissary warehouse and later concealing them. He will be sentenced by Judge Burns later in the term.

One civil case was disposed of this morning, that being the suit of H. Rosemberg vs. L. R. Ortiz, when an agreed decree was entered and the case was settled at defendant's cost.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell.

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it."

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

OPENING UP OF BIG BUSINESS WILL MEAN MUCH FOR LAREDO

THIS CITY WILL PROFIT FROM BEING GATEWAY TO MEXICO.

Predicted That Many Big Wholesale Houses Will Establish Branches Here and Laredo Will Prosper.

"There are many new people arriving in Laredo these days from all portions of the United States in quest of home who intend locating here and becoming a part of the citizenship," stated a prominent citizen today. "Every day now one or more people come around and ask if we know of a place that is for rent or where there are furnished rooms for light housekeeping. These people invariably state that they have come here to stay and engage in business," said the businessman.

Almost every day now one sees new faces on the street—men, women and children. Laredo has become famous for her great onion crops, her unrivalled climate has become popularized with people who came here and found it all that it was represented to be, (from both the standpoint of health and other conditions), and then the prospects of great business activity following cessation of the revolutionary troubles in Mexico, and Laredo eventually becoming the most important gateway to the Mexican republic, has subserved to attract attention to this city.

When normal conditions are finally restored in Mexico following the regeneration of the country, the opening of the mines and numerous industrial plants and the general resuscitation that will follow, many wholesale houses and other business enterprises will be established here to compete for the vast trade that will be offered the enterprising and wide-awake business man, but to get it he must get out and hustle. In this line new blood may be infused in the commercial life of Laredo and real live wires may come here to compete for this business—in fact, several business houses are already contemplating opening up here within the very near future, in addition to several which have established themselves here in the past three months.

The day of the "siesta" is waning in Laredo, and unless her business men get enough sleep at night they will be cheated of their slumbers, for when the big business in Mexico opens they will have to kekep wide-awake or the live fellows will make it so interesting they will forget to sleep at all.

Notice to Hunters.

As I have leased my pastures all permits heretofore given by me to hunt therein are hereby cancelled and in future no hunting will be allowed. Trespassers will be dealt with in accordance with law.

BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY.

Private LeBay, Soldier Who Attempted to Desert and Got Cramp on Horse, Did Not Furnish Bond.

Private Frank LeBay, the member of the Ninth Infantrp who was arrested at Webb on Sunday afternoon by an officer of the county when he suspicioned him of being a transgressor of the law by riding a horse not commensurate with the kind of steed furnished the men by the U. S. army, and brought back to Laredo, was given an examining trial before Justice Benavides yesterday afternoon.

LeBay was arraigned on the charge of theft of a horse and, after hearing the testimony adduced at the hearing, Justice Benavides bound LeBay over to the next district court grand jury in the sum of $300, and in default of the necessary sureties he was remanded to the county bastile.

Notice to Hunters.

This is to give notice that hunting is positively prohibited in our pastures, the Barrocito, the Jaral, La Perla and Saucito, and persons caught hunting in any of them will be classed as trespassers and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

POSTPONED MEETING THURSDAY

Laredo Fire Department Will Meet at Firemen's Hall on Thursday Evening to Consider Business.

The regular monthly meeting of the Laredo Volunteer Fire Department, which was postponed last Thursday night until the coming Thursday on account of lack of a quorum, should be well attended, as matters of vital interest to the organization will come up for consideration.

The department is getting everything in line for big improvements during the coming year and furnishing the different companies with the best of fire fighting apparatus. The tanks and accessories of the chemical motor truck arrived yesterday, and being that the chassis has been here some time, the work of assembling and finally installing the motor truck will begin immediately. Another such outfit will be asked of the city by the fireboys, while the Heights Chemical Co. are arranging to mount their outfit on a chassis.

HEAVY EXPORTATIONS MADE THROUGH HERE FOR MEXICO

TWENTY-EIGHT CARLOADS CORN IN LOT IN THREE DAYS.

Besides Large Quantity Sugar, Rice, Lard and Soap; Importations in Meantime Are Very Light.

28,585 bushels (or 28 carloads) of corn.
25,650 pounds of rice.
13,000 pounds of lard.
85,000 pounds of soap.
48,862 pounds of sugar.
1,561 barrel of flour.
Twenty-four brass bugles.

The above list comprises the bulk of the exportations through this port to Mexico during the past three days, according to the manifests filed with the local custom house. Besides these there were some articles that composed some smaller shipments, but these were so small that they are not included in the list published above.

Trainload shipments of exports are now going into Mexico, some of the goods being direct over the international railway bridge in sealed cars, while the remainder goes by cart or wagon via international footbridge to Nuevo Laredo, where the goods are reloaded on to cars at the station there. Most of the exports at this time come from various parts of the state, being received at this point by agents of the purchasers and paid for and then go to their destination after the procuring of the necessary manifests from the custom house. One or two Laredo wholesale firms are also sharing in the exportations to Mexico, but this is not as large as outside firms.

The imports from Mexico just now are comparatively light, owing to the fact that the dearth in cars is such as to prove a handicap to the miners and smelter people sending out ores and other products. However, as orders have been placed for both cars and locomotives with American concerns making same, it is expected they will soon be provided and the present conditions relieved.

Notice to Hunters.

Our pastures, the South Mocha, Las Mesas, the Cisneros, the Burro and La Manteca are posted and you will not be allowed to hunt in them without permission from us. Any person caught will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

WATCHING MECHANICAL WORK.

Stationary Engines, Steam Elevator Hoisting Receptacles and Conveyances Attract Attention.

The animated scenes about the site where the construction work on the handsome new home of the Laredo National Bank is under way is enlivened by the number of people assembled thereabout watching the operations. To many the work is a sort of amazement, for it is being done with the assistance of steam devices, and the only other time that similar construction work was carried on in Laredo was when the federal building was erected.

The two stationary engines on the ground, propelled by steam power, with coal as fuel, keep puffing away throughout the day, pulling the large receptacles filled with concrete to the top of the elevator shaft. The concrete mixing machine does the first function of the work, then the mixture is poured into the hoisting receptacle and carried to the level of the upper shaft, where it is poured into a funnel-shaped receptacle and allowed to run down the valley chute to the excavation for which it is intended. As each foundation pit is filled the chute is directed to another hole in the ground. At this rate the foundation of concrete is being laid fast and the work throughout the construction will be thus expedited.

Every Home Needs A Faithful Cough and Cold Remedy.

When seasons change and colds appear—when you first detect a cold after sitting next to one who has sneezed, then it is that a tried and tested remedy should be faithfully used. "I never wrote a testimonial before, but, I know positively that for myself and family, Dr. King's New Discovery is the best cough remedy we ever used and we have tried them all." 50c. and $1.00.

Special Church Announcement.

Beginning tomorrow evening there will be prayer meeting at the Christian Church every Wednesday night. The meeting tomorrow night will be led by Rev. D. D. Boyle and the organization will be perfected for the future meetings. It is hoped by Rev. Boyle that all the congregation will attend this meeting.

Sergeant Doyle Out.

First Sergeant Daniel Doyle of Troop I, 14th Cavalry was discharged from the Post Hospital yesterday and was in the city today shaking hands with his many friends. He had a narrow escape from being killed. A week ago yesterday he came up behind his horse while out drilling and the animal must have become frightened, for without any warning it jumped forward and kicked at Sergeant Doyle striking him with both hoofs in the face. Fortunately no bones were broken, but the result was a bad cut on the chin, a black eye and bruised face generally. Doyle was unconscious for several hours after the accident and was in the hospital until yesterday.

IS EXONERATED OF CHARGE OF HAVING RECRUITED MEN

FOR SERVICE IN AN ARMY TO BE USED IN FOREIGN COUNTRY.

Evidence Before Federal Grand Jury Was Not Sufficient or of Kind to Return Bill Against Mr. Icaza.

The grand jury of the United States court for the Southern District of Texas, in session here, has exonerated Señor Manuel de Icaza, the former Villa consul in Laredo, of the charge of "recruiting men for service in a foreign army," a specific charge which was lodged against him several months ago, when he was taken into custody and later, following a preliminary examination before United States Commissioner Foster, released on bond in the sum of $2,500.

According to the report of the grand jury, Mr. Icaza was not guilty of the charge made against him, and in exonerating him it is stated that what he might have done was not directly stated in the warrant against him, and he was therefore dissmissed.

At the time that Mr. Icaza, then the Villa consul in Laredo, was taken into custody on a charge of recruiting for the Villa army, it developed, according to his own testimony, that he had assisted some former Villa soldiers, who had applied to him for help, to get back to Eagle Pass, at which place they, of their own volition, were preparing to recross the river into Piedras Negras when they were arrested and detained. The five men arrested as being the supposed recruits have been in the Webb county jail ever since.

During his residence in Laredo Señor Icaza has been the representative of the Villa faction in Mexico and conducted the affairs of that office in a manner most satisfactory to all, and at times lent his support to American officials in assisting to prevent filibustering and other unlawful acts that might be attempted by either Carrancistas or Villistas. His many friends are much pleased to have him acquitted of the charges of law violation against him.

WAKE UP, CHRISTIANS!

To The Times:

Say, you Christians! Are you going to do anything more than utter plaintive squeaks about the millions of Christians, Armenians, butchered, drowned, burned and tortured all because they are Christians?

Think of a million, a thousand regiments of little babies, young girls, old men and helpless women! Babies killed by taking them one by one and smashing their heads against a tree or rock, while the mothers look on. Girls and mothers violated before their parents and children. With the thousands and thousands massacred in times past, it is more than a million.

What are you going to do about it? Anything? The God of your Bible says that a sparrow shall not fall without His notice.

On the Sultan's birthday we cable him: "Great and good friend! Glad you are alive and kicking. Here's looking at you," or words to that effect.

Some years ago, when the Turks threatened to burn some of the missionary colleges and were impolite to some missionaries, one of the preachers present at a large convocation of one of our religious sects in New York urged that the convention demand that our president at once send ships and an army over there to blow the impious Turks off the face of the earth. He not only urged it, he howled and yelled it, and others did the same.

Now there is hardly a whimper while the putrefying bodies lie in heaps for miles and miles and the rivers of Armenia are polluted with dead babies. We have ambassadors at the courts of all the nations responsible for this horror, but we hear nothing but the shrieks of women and children.

Had Lung Trouble and Expected to Die

The many recoveries brought about by Eckman's Alterative are attracting wide attention. Read about this case.

33 B St., Keyser, W. Va.

"Gentlemen:—I was taken sick in November, 1908. I grew steadily worse. Had two consultations. The verdict was the fever had affected my lungs and that my case was hopeless; only gave me two months to live. My physician had tried most all kinds of treatment and none did me any good, so he asked my husband if he objected to him trying a proprietary medicine. I began your Alterative. I was in bed from November 30, 1908, until February 25, 1909, and was thought dying several times. Today I am healthier and stronger than ever." (Abbreviated.)

(Signed) MRS. H. K. BRILEY.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and up-building the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.

THE EDITOR.

Consider the editor. He weareth purple and fine linen. His abode is amongst the mansions of the rich. His wife has a limousine and his first born sporteth a racing car that can hit her up in forty flat.

Lo! All the people breaketh their necks to hand him money. A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in the bazar. The physician getteth ten golden plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurian. And the pround father giveth a chromo.

Behold, the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth into his paper a swell notice. Yea, a peach of a notice: He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman, and her exceewing comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor getteth a note of thanks from the S. G. G.

The daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney.

Behold, she returneth and the youth of the city falleth down and worshipeth. She picketh, and lo she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our most promising young men and getteth away with it. And they sendeth unto him bid him to the wedding feast, and behold, the bids fashioned by Munsgummery Hawbuck, in the city.

Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth ten bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a 12-month subscription.

All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered into the silo. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head, and the trifling thing cometh out "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place."

And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subscriptions and they swing the hammer until the third and fourth generations.

Canst thou beat it?—Lexington Leader.

ITALIAN STEAMER ANCONA SUNK WITH LOSS OF OVER THREE HUNDRED LIVES

Believed Americans are Among Those Lost, in Which Case United States will Demand Disavowal of the Act, Reparation and Guarantees that in Future there shall be No Repetition of the Act.

HEAD SNAPPED OFF.

By Associated Press.

Fort Worth, Nov. 10.—C. R. Meyers was hanged here this morning for the murder of A. W. Montague. His head was snapped off by the fall. Two hours before he was hanged Meyers tried to commit suicide by cutting his wrist arteries with a piece of glass.

CHARGED WITH AUTO REGISTRATION GRAFT.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 10.—John M. Rhodabeck, former agent of the State registration bureau for motor vehicles will be tried today on the charge of embezzling $1,307 of the funds of the state. It is alleged that Rhodabeck turned into the state treasury only portions of sums received from auto owners registered at his office.

OPEN BIDS FOR BUILDING RAILROAD.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—Preparations for the bigest preliminary step in the $43,000,000 Hetch Hetchy water project for supplying San Francisco with water were completed today, when the bids for the construction of a 67 mile railroad from Rosasco to the Hetch Hetchy valley are opened. The road will handle the material for the beginning of work next year on the great dam. The estimated cost of the railroad is $1,700,000.

JAPANESE CELEBRATE AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Incident to the crowning of the Emperor at Kioto today, the Japanese Embassy will hold a briliant reception this evening in honor of the new ruler of Nippon. Hundreds of official and resident friends of the ambassador and Wiscountess Chinda have been invited.

CROWN JAPANESE EMPEROR TODAY.

The coronation of Yoshihito, Emperor of Japan, takes place today in the ancient city of Kioto. In strict privacy, with only a few Shinto priests in their straw sandals moving about, the Mikado will read a formal address to his family spirits. The spirits of Jimmu Tenno and the other 120 of his human ancestors will be told that Yoshihito has come to the throne. Then the new ruler will pay tribute to his ancestors and offer sacrifices.

The big public event, at which the embassadors and accredited representtatives of other governments will be present, takes place this afternoon. This is the formal coronation. For the first time the common people of Japan will take part, with the princes and nobility of Japan.

The imperial throne is erected in a great pavilion called the Shishenden, built of plain white wood. For months the villagers have been preparing this unique building, which is constructed on the old order. No nails were used in its construction, and the lumber was cut with ancient ceremonies.

In the court-yard outside the building some two thousands members of the Japanese Diet, peers and notables of the empire, are assembled. Here also will be seated the foreign delegations, in many uniforms. When the hour of coronation arrives, Count Okuma, the Premier, will ascend the steps to the throne and read a royal address to the Emperor, to which His Majesty will reply. Then Count Okuma will retire to the food of the standard in the court-yard and call for the "banzais" for the Emperor.

The United States government is represented at the ceremony of coronation by Hon. George W. Guthrie, its ambassador and Rear Almidal Winterhalter, commander of the Asiatic Fleet, United States Navy.

The main difference between the ceremonies in Kioto today and the coronation of European monarchs lies in the fact that the European ceremonies are religious, while the Japanese ceremonial is national. Yet the religious element is not lacking, for the Emperor is high priest as well as monarch. At the coronation and at other national occasions he worships the ancestors of the nation, and the divinely descended Emperor as head of the nation is intermediary between heaven and earth. So goes the ancient Shintoism, the national worship.

Every Home Needs A Faithful Cough and Cold Remedy.

When seasons change and colds appear—when you first detect a cold after sitting next to one who has sneezed, then it is that a tried and tested remedy should be faithfully used. "I never wrote a testimonial before, but, I know positively that for myself and family, Dr. King's New Discovery is the best cough remedy we ever used and we have tried them all." 50c. and $1.00.

By Associated Press.

London, Nov. 10.—Two of the Italian steamers Ancona's crew were injured. The Ancona was sunk by an Austrian submarine yesterday in the Mediterranean. This makes a total of 324 survivors reported, out of 642 persons aboard. It is believed there were some Americans aboard. The Italian censorship is rigid.

Three Hundred Drowned.

London, Nov. 10.—A Lloyd's despatch from Bizerta says that 300 persons on the Ancona were drowned, mostly women and children emigrants. One hundred and thirty survivors reached Bizerta and forty-five are at Malta. A Rome despatch says that 100 shells were fired into the Ancona before she was torpedoed. The ship carried 482 passengers and 162 crew.

May Demand Disavowal.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Definite information concerning the sinking of the Ancona is anxiously awaited by officials here. Little is known other than that the ship was sunk with probable loss of life. This caused a sensation. If American lives were lost the United States probably will demand Austrian disavowal of the act, reparation and assurances that there will be no repetition.

Sank German Submarines.

London, Nov. 10.—A British cruiser has sunk two German submarines in the straits of Gibraltar, according to an Algeciras despatch.

Serbian Situation Improving.

London, Nov. 10.—The Serbian situation is growing worse in the north, but is more encouraging in the south, where near Krivolak four Bulgarian attacks were repulsed with heavy Bulgarian losses and without their gaining a foot of territory. French and British figured in this battle, which continues. In the north the Serbians lost all the railways except a small section north of Nish. The French are reported to have recaptured Veles in southern Serbia. The Greek army will soon be demobilized, according to an Athens despatch to Rome, which says that only 50,000 men will be kept under arms. The allies' new loan to Greece, announced today, will, it is believed, tend to cement a friendly sentiment for the Entente in Greece and do more in offers of territory to quicken Greece's benevolent inclination into positive action.

British Destroyer Wrecked.

London, Nov. 10.—The British torpedo boat destroyer Louis has been wrecked in the eastern Mediterranean. The crew was saved.

Italian Steamship Afire.

Galveston, Texas, Nov. 10.—There is little hope of saving the Italian steamship Livietta with a cargo of oil afire off the Sabine bar. Three tugs are trying to tow the ship to shoal water. The crew was taken off last night.

Concern for Other Ships.

New York, Nov. 10.—The Ancona's agents say that it is almost certain that there were American passengers on the ship. Concern is felt here over the steamers Europa, Caserta and Cretic from New York, now nearing Italy, and which have not yet been heard from.

Claim Allied Defeat.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—Sofia, Bulgaria, despatch says that French and British troops in southern Serbia have been defeated with enormous losses. Details are lacking.

To Form War Council.

London, Nov. 10.—Premier Asquith in the house of commons today foreshadowed the establishment of an Anglo-French war council in which French and British ministers would sit. He expressed the hope that Russia and Italy would join it. He also planned to ask the house for a vote of a war credit of two billion dollars.

British Steamer Sunk.

London, Nov. 10.—The British steamships Clan MacAlister, Moorma and Californian have been sunk. Details are withheld.

BRITISH CRUISER SEARCHED ZEELAND

BELIEVE THAT BRITISH COMMANDER VIOLATED NEUTRALITY OF MEXICAN PORT OF PROGRESO.

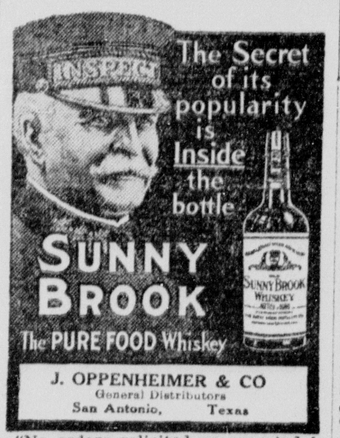

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The American steamer Zeeland was forcibly searched by a British cruiser last week in the port of Progreso, Mexico, and the cruiser is now lying outside the harbor, presumably to seize the Zeeland. The consular report today was incomplete, but the official conclusion is that the British commander violated Mexican neutrality and exceeded his rights in searching the vessel in a neutral port.

The agents of the Zeelanda deny reports that she had been fitted out to aid Germans.

MADE ALIEN BY FIGHTING FOR BRITAIN.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Relatives and friends of Americans who have enlisted in the British and French armies are interested in a decision made by the United States government against Robert Bruce, 35, a native of this city, who is ordered deported to England because he is an alien. The loss of his arm renders him liable to become a public charge. He is pensioned by the British government.

EXHIBIT WORLD'S PREMIER HOG

Decatur, Ga., Nov. 10.—The largest hog in the world, weighing 1,400 pounds, is the center of interest at the DeKalb County Fair which is being here today. The champ grunter beats them all in height, weight and length, according to his proud owner, W. Wimpey of Clarkston, who has won many championship with the big porker.

BEGIN MAKING STEEL BILLETS AT DULUTH.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 10—The first steel billets will be made today at the Duluth plant of the Minnesota Steel Company, and the plant will rush work through for the United States Steel Corporation, so that the huge contracts can be met. Orders now at the local plant will keep it going to full capacity for an entire year.

CONFER ON ROUTE OF JACKSON HIGHWAY.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—The directors of the Jackson Highway Association will meet today to receive the report of the pathfinders who have motored over the various routes suggested for the big Jackson Highway from Chicago to New Orleans. It is expected that the route will be definitely settled at today's meeting, although there is much controversy over the various sections as to whicn should have the big highway. The directors met here last September, but put off the final argument pending the report of a board of investigation. A government engineer took part in this preliminary view of the various routes.

"HACKNEY DAY" AT NATIONAL HORSE SHOW.

New York, Nov. 10.—Today is "Hackney Day" at the big National Horse Show at Madison Square, Garden, and it bids fair to be a memorable occasion for admirers of this ancient British breed of high-stepping harness horses. To help make it so and to emphasize the cordial relations between this country and its Canadian neighbor, the Canadian Hackney Horse Society has ofered four costly gold medals as prizes for hackney stallions and mares shown "in hand." Members of the American Hackney Horse Society have subscribed about $1200 to provide the largest prize ever offered at the National Horse Show. The late Alfred G. Vanderbilt was the prime mover in starting the fund. Among the members of the American society are James J. Hill of St. Paul, Wiliam de Pont of Virginia, Joseph. E. Widener of Philadelphia, Edward B. McLean of Washington and Reginald C. Vandervilt of New York.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE.

The news that the Italian steamer Ancona was sunk by an Austrian submarine with the loss of over three hundred lives, mostly women and children emigrants bound for the United States, shows that Austria is taking advantage of the fact that she is not bound by the recent agreement with Germany, and that she will do everything in her power to injure Italy by a policy of terrorizing.

According to despatches from Rome, a hundred shells were fired into the defenseless steamer before she was finally torpedoed and sunk, and the few remaining passengers and members of the crew were not saved by the efforts of the Austrians.

Whether or not there were Americans aboard will decide the action of our government in this latest marine outrage. If any Americans have lost their lives in the sinking of the Ancona, our government probably will demand that Austria disavow the act, make reparation and promise that there shall be no more acts of the same nature.

The Ancona had lately carried large numbers of Italian reservists to Italy, and this is probably one of the reasons for the Austrian outrage. But on the present voyage she was returning to the United States; she could not have carried arms or ammunition to help the Italians in the war, and could not possibly have been considered a fair target by any civilized person.

The fact that the greater part of her passengers were women and children and of the poorer class should have been suficient to protect her from attack, and the submarine that did the damage could not have failed to know of conditions aboard the Ancona.

It is this disregard for decency and humanity that arouses the passions of people who are absolutely neutral in the present fight. The Austrian submarine had her choice of many Italian men-of-war to attack, but she deliberately chose to sink a defenseless merchant vessel.

Fortunately for the Austrians, they are a thick-skinned people, upon whom the execrations of the world will have little effect. They are so puffed up with a sense of their own importance that they do not consider the opinions of others.

The aristocracy of Austria is said to have little respect for the nobility of other nations in Europe, even that of Germany, they consider themselves so far superior to those of any other race or nationality that they cannot conceive of anyone daring to criticize their conduct.

Hence, any condemnation of their recent outrage will probably slide off them like water off a duck's back. But the world at large will consider that the Austrians, in thus slaughtering defenseless women and children, are even worse the Germans, especially after the press of the civilized world has been filled with denunciations of such dastardly deeds as the sinking of the Lusitania.

Austria has had little friendship from other peoples since the beginning of the war. She was merely the cat'spaw of Germany in originating the giant combat, and her many losses have met with little sympathy from the neutral nations.

At one blow she has now passed into the class in which her ally Turkey properly belongs—that of a barbarous and uncivilized nation that is unwilling to listen to the warnings of history, and that is content to be considered as savage by people for whom she has nothing but contempt.

It will be well for Austria in future to remember that her welfare depends as much upon her own acts as upon those of others, and that she cannot be classed as a nation worthy of the friendship of others so long as she refuses to act in accordance with the laws of humanity, unwritten though they may be.

THE PORK BARREL.

Every scheme of national defense and preparedness is dependent upon the "pork barrel." There is no nationalism in politics, but each section wants the biggest share of federal patronage as a consideration for its support of any proposition.

An example of this is shown in the abandonment of the Pensacola navy-yard in order that the navy repair station at New Orleans may be dignified with the name of navy yard. And the politicians of the New Orleans section used their powerful influence to establish a navy yard 100 miles up a meandering stream with an uncertain bottom in order that the wages of the employes might be spent in the Crescent City.

Each section of the United States should have a navy yard where the vessels might be docked and cleaned at necessary intervals, as well as be repaired. The gulf of Mexico has but one logical point for such a navy yard. Pensacola has had enormous sums expended for the navy yard which is now made a marine barracks and a naval aeroplane station.

At Pensacola there is a large bay, with a splendid entrance, capable of affording shelter to our entire navy if necessary. The central power station was erected at a cost of millions of dollars, and the various departments were well equipped to handle almost any kind of work that might be brought there.

At New Orleans the shifting current makes it uncertain whether a vessel may even reach the repair station, and no vessel of great draught can be docked there at all seasons of the year. Yet the Pensacola navy yard is abandoned in order that New Orleans may employ a large force of men and expend a vast sum of the government's money.

Now that the effort is being made to increase the navy, some provision should be made for the repair and cleaning of the vessels in gulf waters. There are points along the Texas coast which would be available, it is true, but why should the government spend more millions in establishing new navy yards while there are yards already available?

The project to establish a naval oil supply station is a good one, and Texas, with her wealth of mineral oil, should have one of the stations in order that the oil need not be shipped great distances by rail. Port Arthur is a logical place for such a station, but Port Arthur has not the political influence to secure the station if the pork barrel system is to be carried out.

One of the reasons why we have the least effective army and navy for the amount of money expended is that enormous sums are wasted annually for political reasons. And so long as this system continues, so long must we expect to receive as little as possible for our money.

A great deal of influence is being brought to bear to establish a great army post at San Antonio. But there is also a great deal of influence which will be used against it, while such places as St. Louis, Cincinnati and other great cities are determined to secure the post if political pull will get it.

Our army should be consolidated. That is the opinion of all the important military officers, and it is a logical opinion, based on real reasons. To scatter the army in small units all over the interior of the country is to impair its efficiency in time of need.

The border country should be chosen for one or more great army posts where the men would be available in case of necessity. And this should be done for strategic reasons, not because some of the merchants want the soldier trade.

Indications are that the day of the pork barrel is nearing its sunset. And the people will save an enormous amount of money when the local graft is no longer considered in questions of public policy.

If that British commander is still waiting outside Progreso for the American ship to appear, why not send one of our vessels down there to help his "watchful waiting?" He might need some help in turning her loose.

Asquith says he wants another war loan of two billions. Well, if he will put the amount high enough, he might get what he wants, especially as the financiers seem willing to shade the transaction fifty per cent.

The allies report a great victory in south Serbia over the Bulgarians, while Berlin reports a Bulgarian victory over the allies, but but says that "details are lacking." Which story sounds the more probable?

The allies are now arranging to conduct the war by a joint war council, and Asquith expresses the hope that Russia and Italy will join. If Russia's ministers are of no more value as councillors than they have been in directing Russia's campaign, they will be of little use.

TWO UNDESIRABLES DEPORTED.

Men Had Been Convicted of Importing Women for Immoral Purposes and So They Were Ousted.

Two Mexicans who had been convicted in the federal court, and who had, by their confinement in jail, served sufficient sentences to justify the federal court releasing them, were this morning, after their dismissal, taken to the boundary monument by George Coury of the immigration service and told to get into Mexico and stay there and not come back to the U. S. A.

After the men had been dismissed by the court they were taken in charge by the immigration department, with the subsequent result that those officials decided it would be a good riddance to get the undesirables out of the country by deportation.

INCIPIENT STRIKE IS SHORT.

Day Laborers Employed in Working on National Bank Building Heard Noise Like Increase in Pay.

As a result of some abrupt dissension among the day laborers at work on the Laredo National Bank building yesterday, there was a temporary strike precipitated and the men walked out and remained idle for a short while. Their demands had been made on Jambers & Co., the contractors, and were treated with due consideration, but the demands could not be met and were adjusted otherwise.

The men wanted an increase in pay and shorter hours. They are getting $1 per day for nine hours work. The work they do is that of unskilled men. The contractors and laborers came to an amicable understanding about the matter and all differences were finally settled and the laborers returned to work after an incipient strike that availed them nothing.

FEDERAL COURT NEARS END; WILL ADJOURN TOMORROW

TOTAL THRTY-THREE BILLS RETURNED DURING THE TERM.

Among Those Indicted Was General Geronimo Villareal For Importing Woman for Immoral Purposes.

After a session lasting three days the grand jury in the federal court completed its labors this morning and adjourned for the term, turning in three additional bills of indictment before asking to be discharged. During the three days session the members of the grand jury ferreted out matters called to their attention and their was most creditable. They found a total of thirty-three bills of indictment. Of these there was one for attempted murder by poisoning, one for violation of neutrality laws, two for importing women into the country for immoral purposes, three for disposing of United States property, five for violation of the narcotic law and the remaining twenty-one were mostly for smuggling in various forms and of different things—mezcal, etc.

Among the three bills of indictment returned by the grand jury this morning before adjournment was one against General Geronimo Villarreal, the former Huertista commander of the military forces of Nuevo Laredo, who has previously been arrested here charged with smuggling diamonds. The bill returned against General Villarreal this morning charges him with importing a female to this country for immoral purposes.

This morning's session of the court was devoted to the trial of several minor cases and the passing of sentences in others. As all of them were for smuggling or other trivial offenses, a list of them was not secured by the Times reporter.

Federal court will in all probability adjourn Friday afternoon, as only one case remained on the docket at noon and the district attorney had several bond forfeitures and other matters to give attention this afternoon in addition to the solitary case remaining.

Seven final naturalization papers were granted by the court just before noon today, when the applicants took the final oath and are now full-fledged Americans. They are John Armengol, Morris Dworkin, Felix Zimmermann, H. F. Valdez, Pamfilo Rodriguez, Joseph Elo and Steve J. Simon.

The following cases were called and disposed of in the federal court yesterday afternoon, the defendant in each entering a plea of guilty and putting himself on the mercy of the court:

Manuel Gonzales, smuggling. Given fifteen days in the Webb county jail.

Manuel Gonzales, smuggling champagne. Given fine of $100.

Ed Garritt, importing and selling merchandise without complying with the law; ninety days in the county jail from September 16.

Santiago Sosa, smuggling; thirty days in county jail.

Francisco Vasquez, smuggling; thirty days in county jail.

Cornelio Arechiga, smuggling, sixty days in county jail.

Herman Wehmyss, importing and selling narcotics without complying with the law; three months in county jail dating from August 20.

DIED IN SAN ANTONIO.

A. M. Kahn, Former Resident and Business Man of Laredo, Died Today; Funeral Here Tomorrow.

News was received here today announcing the death at his home in San Antonio at 2:55 o'clock this morning of A. M. Kahn, a former business man of Laredo, who left here about three years ago for the Alamo City and had since made his home there. Death ensued after a protracted illness.

Mr. Kahn was a native of Lyons, France, where he was born in 1858. With his parents he removed to the United States in 1873 and located in San Antonio, where he married and remained until 1879, when he removed to Laredo. He remained in this city until 1889, when he returned to France, where he stayed until 1898, when he returned to Laredo and engaged in the grocery business business, which he conducted up to three years ago, when he disposed of his interests here and left for San Antonio and engaged in a similar business.

Besides four brothers and two sisters surviving him and living in France, he leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Mrs. E. C. Camacho, of San Antonio; and three sons, Max and Henry Kahn of San Antonio, and A. R. Kahn of Laredo. The remains will arrive in Laredo tomorrow morning and be taken to the home of his son, A. R. Kahn, 1017 Cortez street, from where the funeral, with obsequies conducted by Rev. Cook of the Episcopal church, will take place at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The family have the sincere sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

Irregular bowel movements lead to chronic constipation and a constipated habit fills the system with impurities. HERBINE is a great bowel regulator. It purifies the system, vitalizes the blood and puts the digestive organs in fine vigorous condition. Price 50c. Sold by all druggists. x

RIGHT HON. THOMAS BURT.

Right Hon. Thomas Burt, the "Father of the House of Commons" in England, who rose from a pit-boy to one of the leading men of Britain, and assisted the slavery of the coal pits, passed away 50 years old today. He was the first representative of labor elected to parliament, and he held his seat for over forty years, retiring about a year ago. Thomas Burt was born in the mining village of Murton Row, in Northumberland, on Nov. 12, 1837. Out of this squalid cluster of one-story cottages adjoining a coal mine came the man whom Earl Grey once called "the finest gentleman I ever knew." At the age of ten, young Burt was a pit-boy, and his wages were 20 cents a day. At night he studied and as he grew older his vision broadened. He realized that the miners were slaves to industrial oppression, and with the pennies that he and his fellow-miners saved in the mines Thomas Burt went forth to battle with the autocracy and arrogance of the coal-pit owners. Under a "yearly bond" the masters could fix the price of labor as they chose, and up to the time that Burt rose as a leader of the miners of England were in a state of servitude. He fought for the miners and broke the system of slavery under which they worked. When he broadened his field of usefulness, and took part in an international meeting of miners. In 1906 he was made parliamentary secretary of the British Board of Trade, and in 1906 a Privy Councillor.

WOMEN IN THE NEWS.

Denver, Colo.—The first white woman to cross Death Valley, in southern California, is Mrs. Marius R. Campbell, wife of one of the leading geologists of the U. S. Geological survey. Every summer Mrs. Campbell leaves her home in Washington and goes out into the wilds with her husband, following him on every step of his journeys into remote places. Mrs. Campbell just told of the thrilling experience she met while crossing Death valley. The place is the lowest spot in the United States, 280 feet below the sea level. In summer the heat reaches 130 degrees. The water-holes are few and far between. Mrs. Campbell went through the oft-told agonies of the desert when she and her husband were victimized by a mirage. They saw before them a wonderful lake, cool, rippling water. The guide was short of water, and eagerly looked forward with canteens when the lake disappeared.

Washington.—Mrs. Alexander Gringorik is designing the wedding gown of Miss Beau for Mrs. Norman Galt Wilson, soon to be the bride of President Wilson. She was formerly a Miss Bolling girl, and she married a Washington artist. Her hobby was designing and her ideas are much sought by wealthy women.

Women interested in gardening and farm and truck gathered at the Art Institute yesterday for the formation of a chapter of the Women's Horticultural and Agricultural association. The women garden enthusiastic body, and have already planned to co-operate with the men gardeners in a big way. The president of the new association, Mrs. Frances Dunham, Mich., attended the meeting yesterday.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Through the efforts of Mrs. Helen Nielson Hutchinson, New York, the Minneapolis Institute of Arts is in possession of the original robe of Gustavus Adolphus, the national hero of Sweden. The robe has been in the family for 76 years. Like Napoleon, the great man whose body it sheltered, the robe is said to be broken after the lapse of years.

The right of woman to practice medicine in the Province of Quebec has been upheld by the Court of King's Bench, dismissing the appeal of Miss Langstaff, who asked for a writ of mandamus compelling the Bar Association to admit her to the examination. In turning down Mrs. Langstaff, and putting up the shutters to bar the women from practice of law, Justice Trenholme, who voiced the opinion of the majority of the judges in appeal, said in part:

"By her sex alone, woman has always been excluded from this profession. It is on that ground alone that we think the appeal should be dismissed. The contention that the masculine gender in the statutes includes the feminine as well does not hold good here. Under French and English law alike, tradition is against the study of law by women." Justice Lavergne made a strong stand in favor of women, but he was alone against four other learned justices. "So far as I am concerned," he declared, "women would be welcome in all the learned professions in the Province of Quebec."

San Francisco.—The "American war baby of Tsing Tau," whose first cognizance of life included the fire of artillery and the explosion of bombs on the far China shore, recently arrived at San Francisco with its parents. She is little Damaris Peck, daughter of W. A. Peck, American Consul at Tsing Tau, and Mrs. Peck, who brought her back to American soil. Although less than two years old, the child is a veteran of the famous siege of Tsing Tau by the Japanese, one of the most notable events of the war in the Far East. When the attack began, shells fell near the American consulate, and Mrs. Peck took the child into the basement. A shell clipped a hole in the American flag over the consulate, and another struck near the building, but the "war baby" was uninjured.

CHARGE BREWERS BOUGHT NEGRO VOTES.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 12.—The postponed hearing of the anti-trust suit of the State of Texas against seven breweries, in which a fine of $21,749,700 is sought together with the forfeiture of their charters, will begin next Monday. The main interest in the big suit is whether August A. Busch and six other witnesses, demanded by the State, will be produced when the hearing begins. The defendants have declared that they were unable to produce these witnesses. Failure to do so without showing reason is sufficient basis for the annulling of the charters of the Texas breweries and their permits to do business in this state ,the officials declare.

That a brewery lobby has been operating in Congress, and that a fund of $19,000,000 has been raised by the United States Brewers' Association in the last five years for anti-prohibition work, were allegations made by Attorney General B. F. Looney, in the suit which he filed last January against the seven leading breweries of Texas. He asked for maximum penalties of $21,749,700 and the forfeiture of charters, because, he alleged, they paid the poll-taxes of anti-prohibition voters and spent corporate funds influencing elections and liquor legislation in violation of their charters and franchises.

One of the principal exhibits in the case is a letter, dated October 19, 1905, at Paris, purporting to be from the late Adolphus Busch of St. Louis, to Zane Cetti of Fort Worth, which said in part: "We must pay over to the United States Brewers' Association whatever it may require to represent us properly before Congress, where we have most important bills to defend. We must defeat that Hepburn-Dolliver bill, which is most dangerous and antogonistic to our industry and which makes prohibition possible."

In the past dozen years, the Texas breweries taxed themselves more than a million dollars for political activities, the petition stated. Buying negro votes was specifically charged. Correspondence on the subject of paying their poll taxes was submitted wit hthe petition.

The filing of the suit last January was the climax of an investigation which the attorney general of Texas had been conducting for two years into the alleged activity of the U. S. Brewers' Association and its subsidiaries in politics and legislation of the state and nation. The defendants named are the Galveston Brewing Co., American Brewing Association of Houston, Lone Star Brewing company of San Antonio, San Antonio Brewing association, Houston Ice and Brewing association, Dallas brewery and Texas Brewing company of Fort Worth.

The petition alleges that the U. S. Brewers' association, through its connection with the National Association of Commerce and Labor, attempted to influence legislation, both state and national. Regarding the nineteen million dollar fund, it alleges that "the major portion of all such funds have been used and will continue to be used by such association and its members, including defendants, for the purpose of attempting to influence state and national, the result of elections, with respect to both men and measures."

WILSON GETS NEW APPEAL FOR PEACE.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Resolutions adopted recently at the International Peace Congress at San Francisco will be presented to President Wilson tomorrow by Dr. David Starr Jordan. The resolutions urge that a conference of neutrals be called to attempt to end the European War.

Her Son Subject to Croup.

"My son Edwin is subject to croup," writes Mrs. E. O. Irwin, New Kensington, Pa. "I put in many sleepless hours at night before I learned of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mothers need not fear this disease if they keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and use it as directed. It always gave my boy relief." Obtainable everywhere.

November.

November's skies are dark and drear,
November's nights are colder;
November's fireside offers cheer,
November's winds are bolder.
November's festal days are few,
Her joys are chill and sparing—
November brings us nothing new
But Christmas-tide preparing.

IF WE HAD MEXICAN WAYS.

June 1.—The army has revolted under General Leonard Wood. The soldiers have not been paid since the revolution of last November, when Señor Taft was ousted from office and banished.

June 6.—The California insurrection under Colonel (now General) Roosevelt is reported to be under control. Señor Johnson was taken and shot by the federal troops near Los Angeles.

June 10.—The Wisconsin revolt under Señor La Follette, which has smouldered since last summer, has just broken forth with renewed violence. Canada has stationed six regiments near the border.

June 15.—The army under General Wood has besieged and taken Washington. A provisional government under his leadership has been proclaimed. The late president, Señor Wilson, has been held for trial. Congress was hastily summoned and under threat of armed force the members were compelled to recognize the new regime.

June 16.—Señor Wilson, Señor Marshall and other deposed officials at Washington were shot today while "escaping." The government officially expressed its regret and refuses to give up the bodies to the relatives of the deceased.

June 17.—The Wilsonistas of New Jersey have been making trouble. Five regiments have been sent to quell the disturbance.

June 20.—Canada still refuses to recognize the de facto government of President Leonard Wood, although Costa Rica and Haiti have done so. Hostile demonstrations were made before the Canadian embassy.

June 23.—The state of South Dakota has been leased to a firm of Canadian capitalists. Federal authority has virtually ceased in the Upper Mississippi regian, and the La Folletistas have declared Wisconsin and North Dakota independent states. It is thought that they may join Canada.

June 30.—General Roosevelt has taken the city of Denver.

July 2.—The state of Kansas has suffered severe loss from the raids and counter-raids of the regular and insurgent troops.

July 3.—Ex-President Taft has landed from Cuba. He denies any intention of trying to regain the presidency. The city of Omaha has been retaken from the Wilsonistas, but Colonel Bryan was not apprehended.

July 4.—Independence day was celebrated with rejoicing in the capital. The treasury is empty and the state of Arkansas is mortgaged to a firm of foreign capitalists to pay for the expenses of government. There is much fear of Canadian intervention. The relative position of the two countries may be better understood when it is considered that Canada has a population of 540,000,000, and that under the Borden doctrine Canada represents the claims of the world upon the American government and insures the safety of foreigners within her borders. The day passed quietly, except for anti-Canadian riots in New York.—The Independent.

CANADA FROWNS ON ENGLISH IMMIGRANTS.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—Eligible men of military age who are coming to Canada are not being welcomed at Quebec according to reports. The immigration commissioner at Quebec was overheard giving one strapping immigrant a gruelling. "You are not wanted over here," the commissioner said, "We do not want men of military age coming over from Britain to grab the jobs in Canada of those who have gone to the front." It is also said that the immigration officials are only waiting the word from Ottawa to bar out all male immigrants of military age.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

STIRRING THINGS UP.

A Texas editor quotes a citizen as saying: "I wish was running a paper here for a while; I'll bet I'd stir things up." To which the editor responded: "You'd stir up the dust down one of these streets trying to outrun a load of buckshot, that's what you'd stir up."

Too many people seem to think that the real function of a newspaper is to "stir things up," in other words, to attack something all the time. We frequently get a "tip" on some bright and shining mark which we are advised to "take a crack" at. And the person who gives such advice never seems to see the incongruity of wanting us to do the work while he escapes the onus of the whole affair.

It is the easiest thing in the world to run a newspaper—from the side lines. The fact that the newspaperman has spent years in learning how to run his business seems not to occur to these people who are so ready with their advice as to how the paper should be conducted.

Some of the would-be advisers are really friendly in their intentions, while others merely have an ax to grind. The ones who are dissatisfied with the city or the county administration appear to believe that the only reason for the existence of a newspaper is to "take a whack" at the officials, while those who want their particular section of the city looked after are profuse with their suggestions for editorial "roasts."

The time has gone by when the average citizen went "gunning" for the editor. One reads no longer of the country editor who took a train out of town while the paper was going to press in order to escape the enraged readers, and this is mainly for the reason that the newspapers have discovered their real function, which is to disseminate the real news, with proper editorial comment on it, instead of carrying a chip on their shoulders for the majority of the citizens.

As a matter of fact, there are fewer abuses to attack, fewer scandals to air, fewer cases of graft to expose, than there ever were before. The world is growing better day by day, and this not only refers to the newspaper readers but also to the newspaper publishers.

There was a time when the citizens eagerly awaited the issue of the paper in order to see who was the object of the latest attack, and to make bets on the probable outcome of the fight that was expected. Now the average newspaper is as conservative as could be desired, and when anything deserves criticism it is given in the spirit of fair play to all.

There are unfortunately still some papers that feel they are not giving their readers the worth of their money unless they dish up some juicy scandal, or attack some one in high place. These papers have their clientele, just as the decent papers have.

The good newspaper is the one that prints the news as it is received, without change or distortion, and that comments on it editorially in a decent manner. This class of newspaper may not make its publisher rich, but it will live for many years and be mourned when it passes away.

The newspaper is a moulder of public opinion, it is said, but it is less so nowadays than in the past. The people are becoming better educated, more competent to form their own opinions, and less willing to accept the ready-made opinions which their fathers accepted as the gospel.

Still, a newspaper that has opinions of its own, which it is not afraid to express before the public, will always have the respect of even those who differ with it. And when it becomes known that those opinions are not variable, changing with every wind of patronage, the respect for the newspaper is naturally increased.

WAR AND RELIGION.

According to Mr. Bryan, the apostle of "peace at any price," it is an insult to religion to talk about preparing for war. He thinks that religion should not be insulted by people who believe in preparing for war as the best means of preventing war.

Mr. Bryan is mistaken. It is true that war is an insult to religion, as it is an insult to everything else that is decent. And the very people who resent the insult are willing that we should be placed in such a position that we may have war forced upon us, instead of so defending ourselves that war with us would be out of the question.

The teaching of the Christain religion is peace. The founder of that religion called Himself the Prince of Peace, and He taught that peace was the most desirable thing in this world, as preparing us for the next world.

But a peace that results from a pusillanimous submission to tyranny is still more of an insult to religion than is war. We are not taught that we must not prepare to defend ourselves, nor that preparation which prevents imposition is wrong.

Those who are most strongly defending the proposal for defense are not the ones who are looking for war. They do not want war and therefore they are trying to insure against it. The man who insures his house against fire is not looking for fire, but is doing his best to prevent loss should fire come.

As well say, like the fatalist Turks: "Oh, if fire burns my house it is the will of God, and there is no use fighting against God's will." A man who should thus neglect to prepare for his own protection in this day and age would be looked upon as insane.

There is no reason to believe that war comes by God's will, any more than that other evils come by His will. If there is anything in which the Prince of the powers of darkness has a hand, it is surely war. But we are taught to resist the devil, and a proper preparation against war is as good a resistance against the devil as can well be made.

There are two kinds of preparation for war. One is to so prepare that the nation is ready for aggression against others, and such a preparation is to fit men to kill others. The other is to so prepare that the nation is ready to prevent others from committing aggression, and this is to keep others from killing you.

Mr. Bryan's love of peace would not cause him to turn the other check (literally) if he were smitten; on the contrary, he probably would consider that he was justified in preventing the man from striking him again. And this is exactly what our program for preparedness means.

We are not going to go out of our way to look for an antagonist. At the same time we are going to be so prepared that if some one goes out of his way to attack us, we shall be able to defend ourselves and to prevent him from the full extent of the injury which he may have contemplated.

It is urged by some of the opponents of preparedness that we need fear nothing from any other nation for some time to come because those who are now engaged in fighting will not be capable of another war in the near future.

It is for this very reason that we should begin the preparation now, while we still have time to get ready. We should not wait until the wolf is at our doors. The tiime for preparation is not when the weapons are needed, but when they can be secured and tested.

A man man does not wait until he is elected to office to prepare himself for the duties of that office. A lawyer who waited until he was admitted to practice to begin his legal studies would be a poor sort of a lawyer. And a publis speaker like Mr. Bryan passes years of preparation before he attempts to address the people.

Prof. David Starr Jordan says that before Christmas a meeting will be held to attempt to bring about peace. That would be the best Christmas gift the warring nations could hope for. But they must hang up their stockings first.

Five thousans Serbians are said to be holding 15,000 Bulgarians at bay. At that rate, it ought to take a bigger army than the Teutons have to overrun a country with soldiers like the Serbians.

The Greek chamber of deputies has been dissolved, at the only way in which the government could secure full liberty of action. But what about the people and their liberty of action? Have they nothing to say, or are they mere subjects without independence of action?

The captain of the Ancona says the submarine not only did not warn him to stop, but even fired on the passengers when they were getting into the boats. Our government says nothing is known as to the nationality of the submarine. But it certainly should be easy to imagine.

DISTRICT COURT IN ZAPATA.

Court Officials Returning Today From Cotulla Will Proceed Tomorrow to Zapata County For Court.

District Judge Mullally, District Attorney Valls and Court Stenographer Wilcox returned last night from Cotulla, where they have been attending the regular session of the district court, and after a short stop here will proceed to Zapata county tomorrow, where court will be convened in Zapata on Monday morning.

The session of the district court in Zapata will last probably three or four days, and probably until the end of the week, but no longer. On Monday morning, November 22, the regular fall term of the district court for Webb county will be convened in this city, and will continue in session until probably after the beginning of the new year of 1916.

GOOD HUNTING.

There are about 6,000 American soldiers in the neighborhood of Agua Prieta. The shooting ought to be good. Considering the small size of the American army the administration cannot be expected to stock that part of the country any more thickly. The best that can be done has been done, and we hope in the Mexicans appreciate it.—Chicago Tribune.

Sufferer From Indigestion Relieved.

GEN. GERONIMO VILLAREAL FACES SMUGGLING CHARGE

DEFENSE CONTENDS JEWELRY, ETC., NOT DUTIABLE.

Admits That Same Was Brought Into This Country Without Payment of Duty, But Makes Contentions.

This morning General Geronimo Villareal, former commander of the Huerta military forces in Nuevo Laredo, and who was arrested in October, 1914, charged with smuggling of diamonds and jewelry to the amount of $3,440, and subsequently released on bond of $5,000, was arraigned for trial in the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas. The details of the arrest of General Villareal of the smuggling charges are still fresh in the minds of Times readers, as a full account of the affair was published at the time. He had brought a large amount of jewelry and diamonds into the United States through Havana, Cuba, without paying duty on same, and later was arrested here on a charge of smuggling.

General Villareal is represented on the trial by Marshall Hicks of San Antonio and T. C. Mann of this city, while the government or prosecution is represented by U. S. District Attorney Green. In answering the charges of alleged smuggling the defense claimed that the property was the personal wearing adornments of the defendant and were not subject to duty. They admit the charges of the prosecution, therefore, that all the diamonds, jewelry, etc., taken from the defendant, were brought into the U. S. without payment of duty, but that same was not done with the intention of wilful smuggling.

Quite a number of witnesses have been summoned for the trial and each side examined some of their witnesses this morning. Those called by the government up to noon were Customs Inspector Robt. Rumsey, Deputy Collector of Customs Ed. Cotulla, Deputy U. S. Marshal Allen Walker, Lady Inspector Mrs. Pereira and B. T. Pitt, customs inspector at a port of Florida, and the latter of whom arrived here this morning for the trial. The witnesses introduced by the defense up to noon were former Collector of Customs J. J. Haynes, Dr. Gongora, Agustin Salinas and Dr. Tamez. This afternoon both sides are introducing more testimony and it is probable that the case will go to the jury by four o'clock.

The trial of General Villareal for smuggling is a criminal charge, and this will be followed by a civil suit instituted by the government for confiscation of the diamonds, jewelry, etc., which was seized at the time of Villareal's arrest a year ago.

The trial of the smuggling case is on before a jury selected from the regular petit jury panel of the week.

WILL BE ATTRACTIVE FRONT.

Massive Columns in Front Facade of Mercy Hospital Annex Are Being Placed in Position.

The six massive twenty-four-inch columns supporting the portico of the front of the Mercy Hospital annex, making very imposing and attractive features of the east facade of the new building, are now being placed in position, being cast in concrete and cement and reaching from the ground to the third story of the addition to the present building.

The attractive pressed fire brick being used on the front of the annex gives the building a handsome appearance, and the massive columns will add to the majestic and attractive architectural beauty of the edifice. The work is being pushed forward rapidly and the building will, judging from all indications, be completed early in the new year.

Notice to Hunters.

This is to give notice that hunting is positively prohibited in our pastures, the Barrocito, the Jaral, La Perla and Saucito, and persons caught hunting in any of them will be classed as trespassers and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

THREE GOVERNORS ON VISIT.

Governor Caballero of Tamaulipas, Now in Nuevo Laredo, Accompanied by Two State Executives.

As mentioned in yesterday afternoon's Times, General Luis Caballero was accompanied by two other state executives—General A. J. Machuca, governor of the state of Hidalgo, and Colonel A. H. Juarez, governor of the state of Tabasco. With them was also Major Juan E. Richie, chief of staff for Governor Caballero.

After feasting and drinking and taking in the sights on the American side of the river yesterday afternoon, with Consul Garrett as chaperon, the party returned to Nuevo Laredo last night and continued to have a pleasant time, with music resounding everywhere they went. The three governors will remain in Nuevo Laredo a day or two, but not until Carranza arrives, as they would possibly have to make their permanent residence there in that event.

Every Home Needs A Faithful Cough and Cold Remedy.

When seasons change and colds appear—when you first detect a cold after sitting next to one who has sneezed, then it is that a tried and tested remedy should be faithfully used. "I never wrote a testimonial before, but, I know positively that for myself and family, Dr. King's New Discovery is the best cough remedy we ever used and we have tried them all." 50c. and $1.00.

Charley Stowers Was Celebrating.

Yesterday as he walked past the office with a large Manila stogie filling his face and a glassy stare in his eye, one wondered if Charles H. Stowers was thus meditating over the arrival of Carranza, or whether the European war was about to end or whether Villa was contemplating attacking Agua Prieta. He keeps posted on all these things, but his Charley Chaplin antics on this occasion were due to none of these things, for when asked the cause he stopped, assumed an attitude likened to Hamlet, and commanded, as he handed us a postcard, "Read and be wise," and this is what the card said: "Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stowers announce the arrival of Billy Charles, an eight-pound boy, on November 5, in Spokane, Washington." And with expression of felicitation we walked away and left Grandpa Stowers in his rapturous and exultant mood. This is the first-born for Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stowers.

IMPROVEMENT CONDITIONS ARE APPARENT IN MEXICO

MONTEREY IS DESTINED TO BECOME REAL IMPORTANT CITY.

Americans Who Have Vast Amount Capital Invested There Exerting Efforts to Improve Conditions.

The quantity of exports that are going through Laredo at this time en route to various points in Mexico indicate the fact that merchants in the different cities are replenishing their supplies of goods and keeping on hand a stock commensurate with the demands being made on them. Daily shipments of merchandise are being made through Laredo, Brownsville and Eagle Pass to all portions of Mexico, while some small quanties are going through El Paso.

According to a statement made by an American gentlemen arriving here a few days ago from Monterey, that city is beginning to assume normal conditions again following a paralysis of commercial pursuits during the time that the revolution was in progress. "Monterey is destined to become one of the real metropolitan cities of Mexico," says our informant, "as there are many Americans who were former residents of that city going back there now to re-establish their business on more elaborate scales. Much American capital is invested in Monterey and these people are not inclined to allow things to remain in such a condition that their investments will not realize very good returns on the amount of capital invested." In Saltillo business conditions are likewise fast improving, and as soon as Americans, who had deserted that place, return, there will be a great revival of activities in all lines of business.
